Fighting Continues Over VC New Year Cease-Fire

SAIGON (AP) — Four U.S. Army helicopters supporting a South Vietnamese infantry operation were reported shot down in the Mekong Delta Saturday as fighting continued well beyond a New Year's cease-fire declared by the Viet Cong.

The allies have announced they will not halt offensive operations until 6 p.m. Sunday—5 a.m. EST—and a U.S. spokesman said, "As far as we're concerned there is no truce until 6 o'clock."

Once the allies cease fire begins, it will extend 12 hours—to 36 hours instead of 24 hours—in response to Pope

Paul VI's appeal that the holiday be observed as a "Day of Peace" throughout the world. The South Vietnamese government announced the cease-fire extension Saturday.

The Viet Cong had said it planned to start a three-day New Year's cease-fire at 1 a.m. Saturday. But 12 hours later guerrillas were fighting South Vietnamese troops 58 miles southwest of Saigon.

A government battalion reported it made contact with a Communist force of unknown size and a second battalion was carried in by U.S. helicopters. Four helicopters, hit by ground fire, crashed and burned, killing one American crewman and injuring three others. One of the helicopters had been carrying out South Vietnamese wounded but the government forces described their losses as light.

Spokesmen claimed 25 Viet Cong were killed.

Meanwhile, a series of engagements was reported in the northern part of South Vietnam the area where at least 70 Leathernecks have died in four days of bitter fighting with North Vietnamese troops.

U.S. infantrymen fought Communist troops near Saigon in Bien Hoa Province in two brief contacts Saturday. They said six Communists and one American were killed, and seven Americans wounded.

The Americans, from the Army's 199th Light Infantry Division, exchanged small arms and automatic weapons fire with the Communists and called in helicopter gunships for support. The enemy broke off after one hour, the U.S. Command said, but the Americans pressed the attack until the Communists withdrew in midafternoon.

U.S. pilots continued air strikes against North Vietnam, aiming at defense, supply and communications targets above the demilitarized zone.

The South Vietnamese government's New Year's cease-fire, followed by U.S. troops and the other allies, originally had been planned to last only 24 hours.

The Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying the truce extension had been ordered "in the spirit of His Holiness, Pope Paul's appeal of Dec. 15 that Jan. 1 be observed as a 'Day of Peace' throughout the world."

Reds May Depend More On Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high Johnson administration official said Saturday the United States will approach the problem of the Communist use of Cambodian territory as a sanctuary with the greatest restraint.

At the same time William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state, said there are indications the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong Communist forces "are developing a pattern of military action that could mean more significant use of border areas—not only in Cambodia but in Laos and along the demilitarized zone" in Vietnam.

In a year-end interview, the State Department's top Asian expert said the next development "is somewhat more in the laps of the North Vietnamese than it is of ourselves."

"If they take additional action this will create a more difficult situation," he said. "We believe as we have stated for nearly two years that one of the actions that could be taken that would assist in this situation would be an enlarged role for the International Control Commission (ICC)."

Bundy declined specific comment on the recent interview of Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, with the Washington Post which apparently has opened the door to U.S. hot pursuit of Communist forces illegally making use of Cambodian territory.

Nor would Bundy comment on Sihanouk's invitation for the United States to send an emissary to talk with him. That matter now is under White House consideration.

However, in the first official comment on Sihanouk's move, Bundy declared: "We understand that the prince is dedicated to the preservation of Cambodia as it now stands and to the continuation of its neutral posture in international relations."

"We have made it clear over and over again that we support Cambodian independence and territorial integrity and recognize and support their policy of neutrality.

Sihanouk has asked for helicopters, vehicles, communications equipment and fixed-post installations along his borders.

Among the three countries—Canada, India and Poland making up the ICC—Bundy said there is no doubt of Canada's support and India is sympathetic to enlarging the ICC role. He expressed hope that Poland and the Soviet Union would change their opposition to the inspection.

On other Asian developments, Bundy made these observations:

—Laos—There have been disturbing signs recently of North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao military activity and it is being watched very closely.

—U.S. policies effect on war—"I think they (Hanoi) have begun to realize that although there is some disagreement and a lot of controversy in this country there is also a high measure of support for the basic policy of (Turn To Page Six)

To Avoid War

Eden Planned Concessions

LONDON (AP) — Secret Cabinet records just made public reveal that Britain considered returning one or more German colonies in Africa to Adolf Hitler in 1936 to keep him from stirring up trouble in Europe.

And Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden offered to grant territorial concessions to Mussolini if he would call off his threatened war with Ethiopia.

A change in government policy reduced from 45 to 30 the number of years Cabinet papers are restricted, and newspapermen and some historians were given a preview Saturday at the Records Office. The records will be thrown open to the public Monday.

Eden, according to the Cabinet minutes, expressed the view that there could be no final settlement with Nazi Germany without a transfer of mandates.

Both Neville Chamberlain, then chancellor of the exchequer, and Colonial Secretary J.H. Thomas thought the transfer of Tanganyika—now Tanzania—to Germany might be worthwhile if a permanent settlement could be achieved.

Later, the Berlin Embassy's attitude stiffened. Sir Horace Rumbold, the British ambassador, told the foreign office:

"Hitler's foreign policy may be summed up as the destruction of the peace settlement and the re-establishment of Germany as a dominant power in Europe."

"It is vital to hasten and complete our own rearmament. In view of what is so openly proceeding in Germany, we must be ready for all eventualities."

A year later the Cabinet heard a rosier appraisal from Lord Halifax, who in November, 1937, had a five-hour talk with Hitler at Berchtesgaden. Halifax, later to become foreign secretary, reported the Germans

"had no policy of immediate (Turn To Page Six)

1967 Issues May Pivot Political Developments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major political developments of 1967 mostly were significant for the effect they might have on 1968's national elections. But they also were inconclusive enough to leave the door open for nearly anything to happen in what could be a national turning-point election such as those of 1860 and 1932.

President Johnson, bounced around in the polls, jabbed even by some other Democrats and seeming to swerve little through it all, was the central political personality through the year.

The main cross he bears—the Vietnam war—was the prime political issue, with race and money not far behind.

Nixon, Rockefeller, Romney, Reagan, Kennedy, McCarthy, Humphrey, Wallace and other names flitted back and forth across the political landscape, jockeying for position.

But it was the issues that seemed to point toward some climax, just as the slavery fight and the depression had done in earlier years.

The pollsters, the sociologists, the traveling reporters seemed to find a growing puzzlement through the country.

—How do we end an unpopular war?

—What's the answer to Negro-white problems, riots and crime?

—How do we stay on our financial feet, both individually and collectively?

While the polls reflected dissatisfaction much of the year with Johnson's handling of these hot potatoes, they produced no knight on a charger to solve them.

The President, with little apparent reservoir of goodwill, seemed more directly affected in the polls by issues of the moment than were some of his predecessors.

Wallace, the segregationist, states rights former governor of Alabama, is vowing to put his American Independent Party on the presidential election ballot in most states.

Miles away in belief, vigorous opponents of U.S. policy in Vietnam scrambled all through the year to find a candidate to oppose Johnson, more likely within the Democratic party rather than in a third party.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., criticized U.S. policy (Turn To Page Six)

Police To Exchange Views On Disorders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police officials of the nation's 100 biggest cities begin meeting in seclusion Jan. 15 to plan how to prevent—or control—civil disorders in a year of war, Negro unrest and presidential election campaigns.

President Johnson ordered Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to arrange the training sessions which will involve top police officers exchanging views on preventing and controlling civil disturbances.

Mayors or their representatives have been invited to join some of the closed sessions which will begin at Airlie House conference center in Warrenton, Va., then move on to regional meetings around the country.

In proposing the sessions in November, President Johnson said, "These conferences should make maximum use of the skills and experience gained by several agencies of the government, and of local officials who have been successful in preventing or controlling civil disorders."

In addition to racial disorders, a source said, the police conferences will be concerned with threatened demonstrations by antiwar and civil rights groups against the 1968 national political conventions and campaigns.

"There has been a good deal of discussion about this at the Justice Department," said a source involved in planning the conferences. "Mayor Daley's getting an early taste of it."

Dick Gregory, a civil rights spokesman and night club performer, has threatened to stage massive demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention starting in Chicago Aug. 26.

"They aren't going to take over any convention or any street or any city," retorted Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Similar tough talk has been heard in some other big cities.

Miami's Police Chief Walter Headley announced that his men have been instructed to react to violence with gunfire and asserted: "When the looting starts the shooting starts. Felons are going to learn that they can't be bonded out from the morgue."

And Mayor Thomas Whelan of Jersey City, N.J., where there were a number of racial rumormongers (Turn To Page Six)

Taxpayers' Load Rises Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The burden on the U.S. taxpayer will increase New Year's day even though Congress did not adopt President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent tax surcharge.

Congress did increase Social Security taxes, however, and this will more than offset the repeal of one minor tax which takes effect on Monday—the federal stamp tax on real estate sales.

Higher Social Security taxes won't be felt immediately since the tax rate itself remains at 4.4 per cent during 1968 on both the worker and his boss.

But Congress raised the earnings ceiling on that tax from $6,600 to $7,800. Thus persons earning more than $6,600 this year could pay as much as $52.80 more in Social Security taxes.

The burden would increase further if Congress adopted the proposed surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes which the House Ways and Means Committee plans to reconsider on Jan. 22. Key committee members, however, say action will depend on efforts in the new federal budget to save money.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate House Economic Committee, said Johnson should drop his tax increase proposal and instead take other steps to fight inflation in 1968.

"In retrospect, the Congress was dead right in not enacting a midyear tax increase as the administration requested in 1967," Proxmire said in a statement. "For Congress to pass a tax hike in 1968 would be a serious mistake."

Proxmire said U.S. industrial production during the year declined, and a tax increase "would have eliminated hundreds of thousands of jobs" with no assurance that the rise in prices would have been slowed.

He conceded that the immediate outlook for early 1968 seems to promise some economic expansion but argued that "even the economists most ardently advocating a tax increase agree that the latter half of 1968 is likely to be sluggish." It is in this part of the year, he said, that a tax increase would have its slowdown effect.

Instead of a tax increase, Proxmire said, Johnson should seek to fight inflation with spending reductions in such programs as space, public works and the supersonic transport.

Proxmire said it would be hard to revive voluntary wage-price guidelines but that a compromise could be found. The guidelines, he said, helped keep wage costs stable from 1962 through 1965 and were a prime factor in holding down price increases.

During 1967, a person earning $6,600 or more paid $290.40 in social security taxes. If he held more than one job and paid more than that the difference will be refunded by the Internal Revenue Service upon request. (Turn To Page Six)

Highway Death Toll Is Slowly Climbing Upward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic Toll at Midnight 91 The toll of deaths in New Year weekend traffic accidents climbed slowly Saturday.

The total reached 53. The National Safety Council estimated in advance that 460 to 540 Americans would lose their lives on streets and roads in the tally period which began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end at midnight Monday.

During a nonholiday weekend of equal length 484 motor vehicle fatalities were reported. The first full day of the three-day celebration of the turn of the year brought light snow to much of North between the Great Lakes and Rocky Mountains.

Light rain damped southern areas near the Gulf Coast. Cold weather covered much of the nation.

Traffic deaths during this year's three-day Christmas weekend totaled 665.

The observance of Christmas generally involves more long distance travel and a heavier loss of life. During the three-day New Year holiday a year ago the traffic toll was 469.

The year just past saw no diminution in the popularity of that age-old and ultimate way of getting one's point across—the resort to force.

Americans' proclivity for physical protest is as old as the memory of tea floating in Boston Harbor and as new as tomorrow's headline about another antidraft demonstration.

Consider 1967:

The rights and wrongs of the Vietnam war were not so much debated as wrestled, with the biggest match of the year staged in the nation's capital.

An outspoken and sometimes obnoxious student minority pulled at the universities as if it were engaged in the annual frosh-soph tug of war.

Youth continued to make a big thing of thumbing their noses at their parents' false values by acting out a mad charade with marijuana and other dangerous props.

Detroit re-enacted the battle of Berlin and black power extremists issued new warnings about an imminent guerrilla war in this country.

But what is remarkable about these sundry protests is their one-sidedness and isolated effect.

Yes, platoons of police and national guardsmen were frequently called out—sometimes regiments and battalions—to do some pushing and prodding in the name of public order and sometimes swing clubs and toss tear gas bombs and sometimes shoot.

But compared to the terrible draft riots in New York in 1863, the recent miserable little demonstrations in that city looked like temperance society tea parties. Even Detroit was mild in terms of casualties.

Conspicuously absent from the scene in 1967 was any mass uprising among those of the public aligned on the other sides of the various issues, any resorting to the same tactics of civil lawlessness to express their opinion in return.

Much is made of the average American's desire to remain "uninvolved." Maybe this is not always something to be deprecated. Maybe it is one reason why the excesses of the few have not been met with the excesses of the many, why the current wave of civil disobedience has not been met with a wave of official repression.

With remarkable patience and growing understanding, most people are facing up to these new and threatening social developments. If there is any underlying general reaction, it is the realization that the root causes of our national ills must be discovered and corrected, not wished away.

Besieged, plagued, assailed, cautious of the future, the overwhelming majority of Americans in 1968 will continue to stage a real demonstration of a free nation's ability to govern itself. They're keeping their cool.

'Ring Out The Old'

Tennyson comes to mind when one contemplates the annual changing of the guard. "Ring out the old," he wrote, "ring in the new." He then elaborated stirringly on the theme: "Ring out old shapes foul disease. Ring out the narrowing lust of gold; Ring out the thousand years of old. Ring in the thousand years of peace!" Also: "Ring in the valiant man and free. The larger heart, the kindlier hand! Ring out the darkness of the land. Ring in the Christ that is to be." Tennyson and his contemporaries doubtless thought, as many before and since them have, that they lived in parious times. What would they have made of ours? How would the old poet have felt about an era so fraught with brilliant promise yet so grievously plagued by war and the problems of a civilization beyond his imagining?

As we turn our backs on a troubled year and confront another without promise of much improvement, the fundamental response of all who do not yield to despair will be much like that to which Tennyson's heartening lines called men of his time. The old year is dying. The next twelve-month will confront us with challenges — but also with great opportunities — that the 19th century poet could scarcely have envisioned. Let it be said now, as he said then, "Ring out the old, ring in the new!"

Manpower That's Being Overlooked

We talk a great deal today about the manpower shortage. No one wants to work, it's said. Factories are begging for workers. Offices need people for more and more paper work. Attend a trade convention and the number one topic is where to hire people.

Yet there is a vast pool of manpower going to waste in this country today.

And what is more important the people in this pool want to work.

We're referring to the 50 to 65 age people. It's extremely hard for these persons to find a job once they are enrolled among the unemployed. It's even fairly hard for a man or woman 40 years of age to find a job.

Dr. Irving S. Wright, of New York, speaking at the American Medical Association convention in Houston, scored the practice of companies putting out to pasture people who reach 65, or some other specific age. This notion, he says, is medically false and economically wasteful.

Medical Step Forward

Only a short time ago Louis Washkansky was a man unknown to the world. But his death was reported everywhere because he had lived for nearly three weeks with another person's heart beating in his breast.

Quite aside from the feeling of melancholy that attends the death of any human being, it is sad that things turned out as they did. Had Washkansky continued to live, his body having beyond doubt adapted itself to a heart transplanted from a woman killed in an accident, that would have been a medical triumph of surpassing importance. Yet despite its outcome, the case marks a major step forward.

This is so not only because the transplant was successful and the new heart started pumping blood through Washkansky's body. More significantly, it appears that the patient's body did not reject the heart and that he died instead from pulmonary infection. This case has brought us markedly closer to the day when heart transplants will be, though perhaps not common, an accepted medical procedure.

GOP Needles Democrats But "Flub Stub" Backfires

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Republican Congressional Committee here ran into a little trouble the other day. It all began when one of the committee's resident comedians read a Wall Street Journal article about "Flub Stubs," which are chits issued to passengers by hostesses and clerks of Western Airlines when the firm goofs (losing luggage, spilling coffee on a suit, etc.). The passenger can redeem each "Flub Stub" for $1 at the ticket counter.

Well, the GOP funnyman thought, maybe the Democratic administration ought to do the same thing. He promptly designed one and it was published in the committee's newsletter. The "Flub Stub" carried a drawing of LBJ, under which was printed, "Promises, Promises, Promises." Somewhat resembling a dollar bill, the chit carried this phrase: "Federal Reverse Note." Carrying the gag further, the GOP committee even printed up thousands of such "Flub Stubs" and sent them to Republican groups across the country.

And that was unfortunate, because Western Airlines' lawyers have just notified the GOP that the phrase "Flub Stub" has been registered with the Library of Congress and is owned by the airline. The lawyers add that the GOP must stop using it, pronto. It would seem that if anyone flubbed, it was the GOP committee.

REP. DANTE B. FASCELL, D-Fla., received a letter from an Indian constituent recently. The man advanced a novel reason why he thought his tribe should get something — such as a big loan — out of the Office of Economic Opportunity's program.

"After all," the man wrote, "we have not had an Indian uprising here in Miami for more than 125 years!"

He seems to be saying that if the poor can threaten to riot, the Indians can threaten to go on the warpath.

While the grocer said he hadn't seen the man lately, he told the agent he was certain the sought-after citizen was at home. The reason the grocer was so sure: The man was extremely fond of bologna and only the day before, the young man's mother had come into the store and purchased a huge quantity of it.

The FBI man thought this was an interesting slice of information and, after getting a search warrant, he went to the fugitive's home. He found his man sandwiched between the mattresses of a bed.

SEN. STEPHEN M. YOUNG, D-Ohio, knocked over a beehive shortly before adjournment when he made an offhand comment in the Senate that the long-inactive troops of Chiang Kai-shek not only paraded like Shriners, but probably would fight like them.

While anyone who has ever been to a Shriners' convention knows that they fight pretty well when aroused, Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., a Shriner himself, kept his sense of humor. Said he: "Shriners are exceedingly handsome men and when they parade, they parade in a most magnificent fashion. And although they are devoted to peace, when they fight, they fight with great valor."

Young decided not to pursue the matter.

FOLLOWING adjournment of Congress, Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., sat down and added up the number of roll call votes and quorum calls. For each one, he calculated, it took at least 30 minutes for the House clerk to drone off the names of the 435 members.

Only 100 of the votes were significant, Pike says. On all other occasions, the members could have simply pressed buttons to show their presence. This is how it's done in many, modernized state legislatures, he says, yet the U.S. House of Representatives persist in 18-century methods. He estimates that just with nonessential quorum calls, the House wasted 200 hours—or five 40-hour work weeks—for each member.

THE CUSTOMS BUREAU reports having a rather unusual success in Van Buren, Maine. An off-duty customs inspector, walking along a river near the Canadian border, was surprised when a cab driver came up to him and asked if it would be "safe" to leave some goods on the river bank for a Canadian receiver to pick up.

The agent took permanent possession of 96 pints of booze and two cases of cigarettes.

Favorite Sons: Key Role In '68

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Confusion seems to be building over the role the many prospective Republican "favorite sons" may try to play—or be forced into—in the 1968 presidential nomination fight.

Included in the likely lineup, of course, are such men as Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York, James Rhodes of Ohio, Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania, John Volpe of Massachusetts, Claude Kirk of Florida, Ronald Reagan of California, and Senators Charles Percy of Illinois, John Tower of Texas and Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Some party professional sources, mostly moderate types, are saying that the 1968 situation will stay fluid enough to permit the nomination of Rockefeller by the GOP convention at Miami Beach if some of the listed favorite sons—plus other lesser ones—can be held in a sort of loose confederation until then.

On the other hand, it has been tossed out that Richard Nixon, on a possible winning course, might try to brush some of the big-state sons down like ten-pins and collect them and their delegates in an irresistible push to the nomination.

First off, it can be stated categorically that Richard Nixon does not intend to enter a single big-state presidential primary where a major favorite son is in prospect.

Nixon's strategy has never contemplated this, and sources in New York indicate there has been no change. Indeed, in three of the states mentioned, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Illinois, convention delegates are not even bound to follow the primary results. Nixon could win and get nothing.

The indications that he might try to bulldoze the key favorite sons came as a rather accidental happening. Nixon agents moved swiftly to inform them that these signs were not the true ones.

The impression left by the first reports may not, however, prove altogether helpful. Some of the favorite sons in question, including Rhodes, Shafer and Volpe, are already in a skeptical frame of mind with respect to Nixon.

At least a few party figures believe that these and other GOP leaders will, in fact, keep their large delegations uncommitted until nearly convention eve, and that they will supply the crucial nucleus and much of the delegate mass needed to put over Rockefeller as 1968 nominee.

History is not exactly on the side of these forecasters. Favorite sons tend to melt away in the heat of pre-convention pressures which build for the front-runner who may be winning primaries and piling up delegates in a host of state conventions. If either Nixon or Reagan should get into that strong lead position by early next summer, it will not be easy for the favorite sons to stay in a resisting coalition.

One of their number, Volpe, said at the recent Governors Conference in Palm Beach that at least half the 26 GOP governors might wind up endorsing Nixon in early June if by then he had a commanding lead. Other governors gave similar indications.

Yet it is abundantly clear that many of these governors and other likely favorite sons might like to keep their huge blocks of delegates (just about enough to stop anybody from nomination) off the candidate market until the balloting begins.

Their problem may be how to stay "fluid," in the face of possible front-runner heat, without some positive encouragement from the presently reluctant Rockefeller and leaders working unmistakably in his behalf.

Some party men say Rockefeller's only hope is to do nothing and have nothing done for him until the last minute. But politics is motion. Somebody else may be nominated while some favorite sons and others are engaged in strategic inaction.

Ann Landers: Putting-Out No Way To Hang on to Boy Friend

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who is not writing for advice. It's too late for that. I am writing in the hope that you will print my letter for other teen-age girls who think putting out is the sure way to hang on to a boyfriend.

Bill and I started to go steady on my 16th birthday. It wasn't long before we were doing things we had no right to do. His theory was, "If a girl loves a guy she proves it by holding nothing back." My theory was, "This is the way to make him mine. It will keep him from going with other girls because if I fill all his needs he won't want anyone but me."

After six months Bill began to act as if I was a burden to him. He started to complain because I complained when he went to the hockey games with his buddies. He said I was trying to own him and he couldn't stand a girl who was bossy. So we broke up. Then I learned he had been seeing another girl behind my back. I also learned he had told a few of his "good friends" about some of our private moments.

If any of you girls wonder what it is like to give in to your boyfriend I can tell you in a few sentences: The few minutes of pleasure are soon replaced by terrible feelings of guilt. You walk around scared that you might be pregnant. You pray for forgiveness but you have a feeling God isn't listening because you have failed Him so many times in the past. You wish you could stop, but you're afraid your boyfriend will leave you if you refuse him, and you couldn't stand that because by now the guy is your whole life. Then one day he gets tired of you and you lose him anyway. And who do you lose him to? A girl who knows how to say "NO." — TOO LATE FOR ME

Dear Too Late: Thank you for sharing your bitter experience in the hope that it might help someone else. And now, if you have learned something from it, it will not have been a total disaster.

Dear Ann Landers: For the past 10 years my husband has been too sick to work. I never leave him for more than an hour during the day. Since I do all my own housework I am plenty busy. Once a week my husband and I go to a movie together or we play bridge. This is the extent of our evening socializing.

I don't want to give the impression I am a martyr. My husband is a pleasant person and I don't resent having him around all the time. We have been happily married for 22 years and I hope God gives us 30 more.

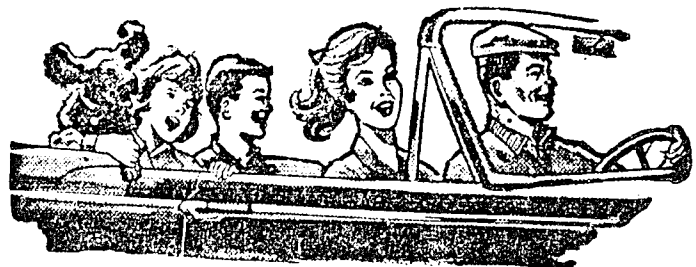

The problem is this: I love to play Mah-Jongg and I get invited to play about three evenings a week. I have two teen-agers at home so my husband is never left alone. He always put on a long face when I leave. Do you feel I should pass up these Mah-Jongg games to please these him? — MIAMI MRS.

Dear Mrs.: Ordinarily I would not advise a wife to leave her husband three evenings a week but since the man is at home 100 per cent of the time, that's a lot of togetherness.

Watch In Jersey Area For The Return Of 'Lone Eagle' Said To Be More Than 50 Years Old

By ARTHUR THATCHER

JERSEYVILLE — Every late autumn and early winter, residents of the locality five miles east of Jerseyville, that once bore the name Bowman Station, keep an annual watch or look out for the appearance of the "Lone Eagle."

Several residents of the Bowman Station vicinity, and southwesterly from that area to the Village of Dow, have reported the winter return of the eagle. Rabbit hunters also reported sighting the giant bird flying high above gun shot range. It is a Federal violation to shoot one of the species which has approached extinction in the United States.

The bird in question is known to be more than a half century old, for its mate was shot in the Jersey county locality forty years ago. The bird and its mate followed the same life pattern at that time, that of wintering this far south from the nesting habitat in the mountainous regions of the northwestern states.

The species was not protected by Federal regulations when the mate was shot and killed in the mid 1920's in the Dow vicinity on a farm of the late Hal Spangle. The bird and its mate had carried away pigs of considerable size from the pasture at the Spangle farm at that time, and Spangle was on the lookout for the birds' return. His watch resulted in success and he shot the eagle as it descended into a pig pen and seized a pig.

The dead eagle was taken to the office of the Jersey County Democrat, a newspaper published at that time by the late Uncle Joe Page. An employee of the paper purchased the dead bird from Spangle for two dollars and had it mounted by a local taxidermist, a Walter Stevens of the Jalappa vicinity. For many years the mounted specimen occupied a perch in a glass show case at a local millinery store operated on North State street in Jerseyville by the late Miss Jennie Thatcher. The store was sold to other parties following her death and the specimen eventually disappeared from the local scene.

Predatory Background

Seventy-five years ago, local folk lore abounded with tales of the ferocity of the eagles. They were charged with having carried away small children, and some pioneer mothers used the fear of the eagle to keep their small children within the bounds of the area surrounding their cabins.

Doubtlessly much of the folk lore locally may have been a carry over by immigrants from the old countries of Europe. In an extensive volume of its time, carrying more than 1000 illustrations of birds and animals, the compiler of the work published in 1879 by Hubbard Brothers of Philadelphia, Pa., the late Rev. W. Bingley, A.M., cites a number of definite instances of eagle atrocities. His work was prepared for publication after laborious personal research and assisted by the ones of Currier, Buffon, Wood, Dallas, Wilson, Audubon, Nuttall, Bonaparte, Agassiz, Jardine, Brewer and many others.

Birds Seize Children

"Several instances have been recorded of children being seized and carried off to their nests by eagles," Rev. Bingley wrote. "In the year 1737, in the parish of Norderhougs, in Norway, a boy somewhat more than two years old, was running from the house to his parents, who were at work in the fields at no great distance, when an eagle pounced upon and flew off with him in their sight. It was with bitterest anguish they beheld their child dragged away, but all their screams and efforts to prevent it were in vain.

"Anderson, in his history of Iceland, says that in that island children of four or five years of age have been sometimes taken away by eagles.

Professor, World Traveler

EVEN ON VACATION and even if you are a full professor at Vassar there are still papers to read and evaluate. Miss Mary Hillis, back in her hometown for the Christmas vacation, gets some of her work done at the residence of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maskell. One of her hobbies is photography and she says she has about 1,000 slides taken on each of her five trips abroad. She is a great camera swapper and does some of her own developing. Her Roliflex 2.85 was bought on her first trip to Germany and she now also owns a Roliflex 16 and a Leica. At Vassar she uses her chemistry department darkroom for developing and printing her pictures.

BEARDSTOWN — The next impressive event in the life of Mary Olive Hillis, a full professor at Vassar, will be a trip to Portugal, to which she is looking forward with keen anticipation, although not with the excitement that would attend such a prospect for the uninitiated.

Professor Hillis is a graduate of Beardstown high school who left here to pursue her chosen major studies and to make a contribution to educational excellence in the nation's most famous school for women.

She was born here, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hillis and the family lived at 918 Jefferson. Her father was a C.B. and Q. railroad trainman. She was an only child and the deaths of her parents left her with a single relative in Beardstown, an uncle, Joe Maskell, 1200 Washington street.

The Vassar professor spent her Christmas vacation here with Mr. and Mrs. Maskell and friends, and left Beardstown December 28 to continue a career already marked as highly successful.

She was graduated from high school here in 1937 took an A. B. degree at MacMurray in 1941 and received M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois in 1942 and 1944. She had university scholarships and fellowships for three years, majoring in analytical chemistry with minors in physical chemistry and physics. Her university honors included Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi.

Miss Hillis went to Vassar, at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., in 1944 and has had an outstanding career there. From 1944 to 1949 he was an instructor, then became an assistant professor and served in that capacity until 1954. In 1952 she attained full professorship and was made chairman of the department of chemistry.

She has served as senior advisor in the office of the dean of studies, held Vassar faculty fellowship in 1961 at the University of Illinois and at present, in addition to teaching and the chairmanship, she is serving on committees on curriculum, admissions and teacher education as well as various other assignments.

Her duties as a member of a newly-formed steering committee will be dealing with proposals by the board of trustees concerning plans for future development of Vassar.

This resulted in intensive study during the past year on a possible move to New Haven and coordination with Yale university. "I am very happy that the decision was made to remain in Poughkeepsie," she commented, "and I am looking forward to exciting and challenging times as Vassar enters this new period of change and development."

During the past year she has served Vassar as delegate on educational matters at the State University of New York in Albany, Duke University and at Brown University.

She is a member of the American Chemical Society, American Association of University Professors and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

She is listed in American Men of Science, and material for a biographical article has been composed for Who's Who this year.

Travel, photography and stamp collecting are her hobbies. She became a philatelist as a Beardstown third grader and has an extensive collection of valuable stamps.

Her interest in photography dovetails nicely with her fervor for traveling. She saw "America first" in 1956, since which time she has been to Europe five times; in 1957, 1959, 1961, 1962 and 1966. She went abroad four times by boat and once by plane, but when she gets to Europe it is trains for her.

"Since the first year they came out I have purchased a Eurailpass which is good in 14 countries," Prof. Hillis said.

"Travel by rail is still my favorite form of transportation, as I am still a 'railroader' at heart. I certainly should be for my father was an engineer on the 'Q' two of his brothers were engineers, one was a fireman and one a vice-president of the Rock Island railroad.

Three of his four sisters also married engineers or conductors, and my mother's two brothers also worked for the railroad."

Miss Hillis has traveled in Norway, Sweden, Finland, England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Austria, Italy and Spain. She is especially fond of Sweden and her favorite city is Copenhagen, which she has visited five times. She had interesting experiences in Scotland, Northern Ireland and Germany where she located relatives and since she speaks German and French she has had no trouble in communication. She also is fluent in Italian and Spanish and regards Latin as her favorite subject.

Her plans for this summer vacation include the hope to spend two weeks in Portugal. She says that she will try to convince her cousin Doretta Rasmussen Irving and Mr. Irving to make the trip with her. She is spending New Year's with the Irvings in Saginaw, Michigan.

Much of next summer will be spent in Poughkeepsie pursuing a new interest in Computer Assisted Instruction (CAI), and writing some programs for supplemental instruction in general chemistry.

Miss Hillis still owns the home at 918 Jefferson street and plans to return to Beardstown someday.

Viet War: Most Divisive
U.S. Church Issue in '68

David Poling

By DAVID POLING
Since the future is an extension of the past, let us carefully note these events as highpoints in the New Year:

1—Pope Paul VI will announce that, although many are asking, pleading, demanding changes in the Vatican's historic position on birth control, tradition prevails. No sweeping alterations. No allowances in the regulations concerning abortion. Further study required concerning the Pill. Result: The average family will continue to make its own decisions, with or without approval from Rome.

2—The war in Vietnam will become the most divisive issue in the churches of America. The National Council of Churches will be at the forefront of this debate, provoking old enemies and enlarging the field of controversy. Officers of the council are fully aware of this but feel they must press for an end to the war and the beginning of a negotiated peace settlement in Southeast Asia.

3—Father James E. Groppi, the militant civil rights priest in Milwaukee, will succeed (by Easter) in securing a fair-housing bill in that city. Although Father Groppi receives about 25 telephone threats an hour, he has gained something else that guarantees Negro rights — the absolute support of not only his bishop but the aid and comfort of every solid Protestant denomination in the country. National church executives and aides who have been all the way with Father Groppi, told in suburban congregations to rally around and will not yield to any half-hearted compromises. These white men will not speak with forked tongue.

4—The World Council of Churches meets in Uppsala, Sweden, in July. We predict that this will be the wildest session the council has ever known. They will gather thousands of delegates from every corner of the globe and consensus will be hard to find. The international conflicts in the Middle East, Vietnam, South Africa are going to be high on the discussion list. World population control is another blockbuster. Conservatives from the American churches usually become the most vocal critics at international affairs. A deposed Presbyterian minister from New Jersey will picket the assembly with his hired hands.

enough to raise hopes in some of these people that he would take on Johnson.

As winter approached, however, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota said he'd oppose Johnson and enter some presidential primary elections. That raised speculation he might be a stalking horse for Kennedy, but both men denied it.

Vietnam directly and indirectly got on some ballots in 1967. San Francisco voters turned down 2-to-1 a proposition that the United States get out. In Cambridge, Mass., the vote was 3-to-2 against a resolution urging prompt return of GIs from Vietnam.

But in a war-oriented special congressional election south of San Francisco, Paul N. McCloskey, a Republican, Korean War veteran and so-called dove, soundly upset Vietnam hard-liner and better-known Shirley Temple Black, onetime child movie star.

Republicans could be found on almost every side of the Vietnam issue. Michigan Gov. George Romney suffered from it perhaps more than any other GOP presidential aspirant. He was accused of being on several sides.

Romney entered 1967 as the seeming leader for the nomination. He and Johnson tangled in midsummer over use of federal troops at Detroit riots and the jut-jawed governor came off well.

But in September he said U.S. officials "brainwashed" him during a 1965 visit to South Vietnam after which he had endorsed U.S. policy. He plummeted from first to fourth in one poll. Even a formal declaration of candidacy in November and a round-the-world tour in December did not seem to rekindle much support.

Instead, there seemed to be growing feeling among moderate Republicans that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller—who said he doesn't want to be president—should be the nominee.

The favorite's role, however, fell to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He advocated more bombing, spent the year traveling and writing, and showed up with his customary zeal at party events all over the country.

Taxpayers

Congress approved a maximum payment during 1968 of $343.20 based on the same 4.4 per cent rate and maximum earnings of $7,800. The maximum payment would have remained at $290.40 in the coming year under the old law.

This and repeal of the stamp tax are the only two changes in tax law now scheduled for 1968. The measure approved by Congress this year will boost the maximum Social Security tax to $460.20 for both the worker and his boss by 1967 compared with $372.90 under the old law.

This will mean a tax rate by 1967 of 5.9 per cent. For the self-employed, the maximum tax will go as high as $616.20 by 1967. It was $422.40 during 1967 and will jump to $489.20 during 1968.

The real estate stamp tax brought about $60 million to $70 million to federal revenues yearly. The home buyer paid it when he signed his settlement papers. It amounted to 55 cents for each $500 or fraction involved in a transaction.

moderate and essential military action, accompanied by an unremitting search for peace.

—Vietnam peace prospects—
"The choice between negotiation and the war fading away is really always Hanoi's choice. Major progress toward peace may be made within South Vietnamese themselves."

"The South Vietnamese government itself has suggested that it would be willing to talk with individuals associated with the National Liberation Front who hold this kind of view. This possibility as the year has gone on has seemed more and more to offer some promise at some point of a real movement toward peace from within South Vietnam."

—Prisoner exchange—
The United States would be interested in any possibilities of exchange at any time and have frequently had indirect contacts with Hanoi and discussed the matter through such indirect channels.

—Communist China—
It is too early to say that there is any change for the better in the worrisome tendencies that showed in the middle part of the year in Chinese policies toward Hong Kong, Burma, Indonesia and Cambodia.

"I don't think this (Chinese nuclear developments) has had a serious effect on Asia."

Claims Chicago Klan-Policeman Is Grand Dragon

CHICAGO (AP)—The imperial wizard of a Ku Klux Klan organization said Saturday that a Chicago policeman is the group's grand dragon in Illinois.

James R. Venable, an Atlanta lawyer and leader of the National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan Association of America, so told a reporter in Georgia.

He said the patrolman, Donald Heath, 30, has been the Illinois chieftain for "about a year or a year and a half."

Heath was relieved of duty Thursday after a raid on his Chicago home yielded weapons, ammunition and Klan literature.

James B. Conlisk, superintendent of Chicago's police, said Heath was the organizer and ringleader of a Klan cell that included five other policemen. Three of the men have resigned.

Heath, who has declined to discuss any involvement in the Klan, and the others are under investigation.

Conlisk said charges aimed at removing Heath and the two unnamed officers who have not resigned will be filed with the police review board.

Venable said that before Heath was made a dragon the Klan group had members in Illinois, but had not had a grand dragon in the state since the 1930s.

Venable, in an interview, said there are 42 other Klan groups operating in the United States and that other groups may have a grand dragon in Illinois.

The imperial wizard said Heath came to Atlanta last September to attend his organization's national rally.

Venable said he could not make any estimate of the number of klansmen on the Chicago police force or in the state.

Mayor Richard J. Daley said Friday that only six of the police department's 14,000 employees had been termed Klan members. The mayor said members of any organization "based on hatred" will be barred from jobs in city government. The ban, he added, would be extended to any extremist organization, including the Chicago-based Black Muslims.

There has been no indication of whether any members of other extremist organizations are on the police force.

adventure." Nine months later the Germans moved into the Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia.

Records for 1935 show that Eden, widely regarded as one of the Cabinet's nonappeasers, secretly offered Italy the Ogaden territory of southeast Ethiopia if Mussolini would call off his threatened war on Ethiopia.

Eden, now Lord Avon, made the offer six months before the Ethiopian war began. Ethiopia was to be compensated with part of British-protected Somalia.

The deal fell through because Mussolini turned it down, the record shows.

On the domestic front, the records show that in the 1931 financial crisis King George V threatened to sell all his horses and state carriages and fire the "Beefeater" guards at the Tower of London if the Labor government cut his allowance by 20 per cent.

The king told the Cabinet these economies would hurt the public more than him. The threat worked, and the royal allowance was cut only 10 per cent, which the king already had accepted as reasonable.

Papers about King George's son's abdication as King Edward VIII, though falling into the 1922-37 period, are not released. The exceptions were made to avoid embarrassment to the ex-king, now Duke of Windsor, and his wife, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson.

To help plan the sessions the police chiefs association hired a police official who has seen plenty of demonstrations—Jewell Ross, former captain of detectives at Berkeley, Calif., home of the University of California.

Ross said in an interview that the police chiefs, or their representatives, from the 100 biggest cities have been invited to the Airline House sessions in Virginia. These, he said, will be broken down into four weekly sessions, running from Jan. 15 to Feb. 9, with 25 chiefs at each.

Vietnam

The ministry said the government and people of South Vietnam "appeal to the Communist forces to respect the New Year's truce."

A spokesman for Pope Paul in Vatican City said the pontiff was "deeply grateful" for the truce.

The spokesman added that the Pope was still awaiting some reply from North Vietnam to his peace appeal of Dec. 22 in which he offered himself as a mediator in Vietnam.

There was speculation that the truce extension was the subject of the urgent meeting Friday between President Nguyen Van Thieu and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

Thieu denied this. He would not say what the subject of the Bunker discussions was other than it was "urgent."

In a delayed report, the Marines announced Operation Badger Tooth along the border of Quang Tri and Thua Thien Provinces and said 27 enemy were killed there Friday in "close-range fighting along the coast of the South China Sea."

In the fighting that began in that area Wednesday, the command listed 48 Marines killed and 31 wounded. Marine forces were reported moving on through that area.

Just to the south of those two northernmost provinces, 33 enemy were reported killed in a Marine operation called Auburn which began Thursday. That operation in Quang Nam province has centered around the coastal town of Hoi An. Cumulative Marine casualties were listed Saturday at 22 men killed and 47 wounded.

Heavy strikes by U.S. warplanes supported the Marines, but over North Vietnam American planes were held by bad weather Friday to 66 strike missions. They struck at supply points north of Haiphong.

A Navy Phantom jet was shot down as it flew relatively low over a North Vietnamese island on a reconnaissance mission. The two crewmen nursed the crippled plane out over the Gulf of Tonkin, bailed out, and were picked up by a helicopter. It was the 771st U.S. plane reported lost over North Vietnam.

In politics, President Thieu in a talk to diplomats ruled out negotiations with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front (NLF)—and said only North Vietnam could end the war.

Thieu also told newsmen at the diplomatic reception that a Viet Cong emissary who was arrested Dec. 1 on his way to contact the U.S. Embassy was of low rank and he doubted he was a legitimate representative of the NLF.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 31—

Born today, you are not one to hide behind a mask of form, fact, or diplomacy; rather, you are one who wants to be known for precisely whatever he is or feels. It makes little difference to you what others think of you so long as you think well of yourself—and this you never could do if you were less than honest in the way you presented yourself to the outside world. This is not to say that you do not know how to employ tact to save others from harm, however.

Because you do not like to be led by your emotions—having found such an approach to life detrimental to your progress and, thus, your success—you make every effort to think things through carefully and reasonably, depending upon knowledge and past experience to aid you in finding solutions to whatever problems you may have. Take care, however, that you don't rule out emotion altogether.

You do not easily latch on to new theories. You prefer to keep to tried and true methods of doing things, at least until others have paved the way with the new. You will take chances, but only when the odds are greatly in your favor, for you do not feel you have the right to risk the success that others may depend upon you for.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Start the new year right. Make every effort to keep resolutions of yesterday, at least for the next 24 hours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—The generous Aquarius will accept the blame for any mishap of last evening. Don't expect others to support a poor loser.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21)—Spend the day with family. A new schedule for family fun could be established now, with benefits accruing to everyone.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20)—Take another's New Year's resolutions seriously and you will be helping him or her to keep them. You can benefit in the long run.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—Though it may be difficult to do so, the wise Taurus will seriously consider the criticism of young people.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Conform to your environment if you would have a happy and peaceful day. Remain calm and take things as they come without a fight.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Make every effort to reconcile your circumstances to your desires. You will make yourself and others happy by so doing.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Act according to your own expectations of yourself. Others may not ask as much of you as you know you are able to give.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—A day which may bring some personal loss and require patience and courage. Be prepared to give both.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—If you insist that things be done your way or not at all, you may be in for disappointment. Be malleable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Condemn others at your own risk. The Scorpio who is without fault is the only one who would point out the faults of others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Begin the new year with a demonstration of affection toward those near and dear to you. Mend any broken fences.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Dec. 31, the last day of 1967.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1879, Thomas A. Edison first demonstrated the electric incandescent light.

On this date:

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed an act admitting West Virginia to the Union.

In 1890, Ellis Island in New York Harbor was opened as an immigration port of entry.

In 1921, diplomatic relations were resumed between the United States and Germany after World War I.

In 1940, during World War II, Adolf Hitler told his armed forces 1941 would bring the greatest victory in German history.

In 1943, Frank Sinatra started a singing engagement at New York's Paramount Theater. It led to near-rioting and made him the idol of the nation's bobby-soxers.

In 1945, Bermuda voted to end its ban on the use of cars on the islands.

Ten years ago: Israel's Premier David Ben-gurion submitted his resignation after his coalition government fell apart.

Five years ago: The United Nations ordered Moise Tshombe to negotiate with the central Congo government about ending the secession of Katanga Province.

One year ago: The U.S. government picked Boeing and General Electric to develop a supersonic transport plane.

PROGRAMMED FOR SERVICE

We begin a new year with two new dimensions in service. In 1967 our Computer Service Center began operation, the first such bank facility in the area. Our primary goal is to provide better and faster service for our customers. However, our computer center is large and versatile enough to furnish electronic data processing facilities for industries, schools and institutions in our area and is already serving several of them.

We pioneered another new service with the opening of our North Main Office, a motor banking facility on the corner of North Main and Douglas. Again, customer convenience and "growing room" were our first concerns. However, it is our hope that our investment in this location will help in the revitalization of the area north of the Square.

In the language of our computer, Elliott State Bank is programmed for service and continued progress in 1968 — not only for our bank, but for the community we have been privileged to serve for more than 100 years.

Beauty Care Today

By MID

One of the new additions to the make-up field is the highlighter. It is used to build up facial areas.

How should you use highlighters? If your eyes are deeply recessed, use a highlighter instead of a shadow. Apply to the lid, and even all the way up to the browline.

Is your chin a little small? Apply a highlighter to the upper chin area, and it will appear larger.

Many women have fairly narrow foreheads. With the highlighter a suggestion of width is added.

Highlighters come in translucent white, ivory, or very pale flesh pink.

In the cream or liquid form, apply with fingertips over your foundation. Use before your face powder. In the cake-powder form, brush on after your powder.

Suggestion: Today, there's really no need to resign yourself to nature's minor mistakes.

The Mature Parent

What Profit in Futilely
Battling Another's Will

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Our 21-year-old daughter is determined to soon marry a 37-year-old man, the divorced father of three children. Though she has known him only since June, she refuses to wait any longer to marry him. When he visited us, we begged him to wait but it was like talking to a brick wall. I don't know whom to turn to, as I don't want her to do anything she'll regret. She is so young and attractive.

ANSWER: Dear Fellow-parent, who among us is spared regret for some mistake we have made?

On the other hand, how can we know this marriage will be a mistake? Now you and I are going to do some supposing together. First, let's suppose that this marriage turns out to be a fine one. Is there so much joy available to us humans that this young creature can afford to pass up a chance to experience it, lest the joy turn out to be misery? That's like standing forever on a sidewalk, lest a truck hit us if we cross the street. So, is this child to commit herself to movement and venture—or isn't she?

Second, let's suppose she DOES postpone this marriage and some unforeseen event ends her relationship to this man. How is she going to feel towards you? Grateful? Not on your life, friend. She'll begin to idealize it so that she may never be able to forgive you for wanting its destruction.

Now let's get down to the brass tack. You and this brick wall of a man who insists on marrying your child have more in common than you have with anyone except her father.

Both you and he are in total agreement on her beauty, her rarity and goodness.

It isn't everyone who is so quick to appreciate our child, you know. It's not going to be all men who regard your daughter as so precious that they want to cherish her for the rest of their lives. BUT THIS MAN DOES. And this extraordinary appreciation of her which you share with him can be the beginning of friendship between you will just let it be.

For his love for her is also a form of love for you, who are her mother.

What I am talking about is what Albert Schweitzer called "acquiescence" in what is, I'm talking about it because you must stop banging your head against this wall of other people's determination.

A Glance into the past A Glimpse of the future!

100 Years Ago

On Saturday last a number of prominent moneyed men of Jacksonville met at the banking house of W. & E. W. Brown and organized the Central Illinois Savings Association. We understand the paid up capital amounted to one hundred thousand dollars.

50 Years Ago

Harry Brady, Cleon Bell, J. W. Walton, J. O. Applebee, Thomas V. Hopper and A. B. Applebee met at Dr. Applebee's dental office and organized the Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association to provide a convenient and profitable place to save and a source of funds to buy or build homes.

Today

Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association is a 25,000,000.00 Dollar institution where each individual saver's account is insured up to $15,000.00. In the past fifty years over twenty-five thousand members have used its savings facilities and over ten thousand have borrowed to buy, build or remodel their homes.

Tomorrow

In 1968 Jacksonville Savings will pay to its more than 9,000 members in 16 states and 5 foreign countries a new GREAT BIG 4 3/4 dividend on all passbook savings. This is the highest passbook rate paid in West Central Illinois, and when allowed to compound produces an effective earnings rate of 4.80 per annum. These earnings together with the fact that the account can be opened for any amount any time and can be added to or withdrawn from in any amount at any time makes this the most flexible and attractive investment offered in the Jacksonville Area. Also, for those who prefer a term certificate, there will be available a $10,000 or more Single Payment Class "E" Certificate which will earn a big 5% per year.

Blanda May Decide AFL's Title Game

40-Year-Old Feared For His Kicking

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—One of the men Coach Wally Lemm of Houston fears most when his Oilers play the Oakland Raiders here Sunday for the American Football League championship and a Super Bowl berth is old man George Blanda, 40.

Blanda quarterbacked the Oilers when they won the 1961 AFL championship for Lemm. His four field goals were the winning margin when the Raiders beat the Oilers at Houston, 19-7, three weeks ago.

"We'll have to prevent the Raiders crossing the 50-yard line," Lemm observed. "His team has the best defensive record in the AFL, only 199 points allowed opponents in 14 games. Oakland has yielded 233, second best."

The game, pitting Eastern champion Houston, 9-4-1, against Western king Oakland, with a 13-1 record, will be televised at 5 p.m. EST, with North-Carolina blacked out.

A sellout crowd of 53,000-plus in the new Oakland Coliseum assures a record gate of $500,000-plus.

Record Receipts There will be a record $364,000 in radio and television receipts. Of the TV-radio money, $345,600 goes into the player benefits.

In his last six regular season games, Roman Gabriel, the big quarterback of the Rams, had been thrown only two times for a loss attempting to pass. On this day alone, the Packers had gotten to him five times. Davis and tackle Henry Jordan, playing on the left side of the Green Bay defensive line, exerted the greatest pressure. Willie is 33 years old. Henry is 32.

"Do you realize," mused Henry afterward, "that Tom Mack, who was playing against me, was only 12 years old when I started pro ball? That shakes you up a little."

Davis had his own motivation. When the Rams beat the Packers in Los Angeles on a last-minute blocked punt, Charley Cowan, their offensive right tackle, had received the game ball from his teammates. Charley's job was blocking on Davis.

"I think I'd be a little remiss," admitted Willie. "If I didn't say that all week this didn't boil a little inside of me. I had one thing in mind — that I would not leave the field feeling that he had earned another game ball."

"My pride was hurt. I think they felt they could come in here and overpower us. It was the most crucial game I ever played. We were hurting offensively. So we had to make 'em earn everything. You know, playing this game is 70 per cent mental. And that's what we did all week — think about it."

To the exclusion of everything else, Willie didn't sleep half the week. He had nightmares when he did doze off. He woke up with stomach-aches. But against the Rams, as in team, a unit that, claims Bobby Boyd of the Baltimore Colts, has really been responsible for the dynasty of the Packers.

The Packers, with 10 men on offense titles in eight years, and their starting units over 20 will be going for a fifth NFL years old, haven't found that championship against the Dallas Cowboys.

UTEP Rally Gains 14-7 Bowl Edge

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A vicious defense kept Mississippi in check Saturday until a slumbering offense awoke for two fourth-quarter touchdowns and a 14-7 victory for the University of Texas at El Paso in the Sun Bowl game.

"We had heard a lot about their offense," Ole Miss Coach Johnny Vaught said, "but someone neglected to emphasize their defense to us. Their defense is every bit as good as their offense."

The Miners' limited Mississippi to only 109 yards total offense, spotted Ole Miss a 7-0 halftime lead and then flashed back with two last-period touchdowns.

"You guys played your hearts out," El Paso Coach Bobby Dobbs told his Miners, "and I'm the proudest guy in the world."

Quarterback Billy Stevens completed seven of eight passes on a 66-yard touchdown drive for El Paso's first touchdown. He passed five yards to flanker-back David Karnis for the TD, and Jerry Waddles kicked the extra point that gave the Miners a 7-7 tie early in the period.

Seven minutes later, 235-pound El Paso linebacker Fred Carr jarred the ball loose from Mississippi's Bow Bowen, and defensive tackle Dennis Bishop recovered for the Miners on the Ole Miss 22.

Fullback Larry McHenry carried four successive times, gaining 18 yards on one haul, before plunging across from four yards out to give the Miners the winning touchdown. Waddles again kicked the extra point.

A record crowd of 34,685 watched the 33rd annual classic which pitted the Rebels of the Southeastern Conference and the independent Miners, who join the Western Athletic Conference next season.

The stingy El Paso defense, which allowed six first downs, recovered two fumbles, intercepted a pass and didn't let the Rebels' offensive unit past the El Paso 40-yard line except for Ole Miss' second-quarter TD.

The Ole Miss defense set up the Rebels' score when line-backer Mac McClure intercepted a Stevens pass and ran 49 yards to the El Paso one.

After Ole Miss lost one yard on a play quarterback Bruce Newell ran around left end for the touchdown, and Van Brown kicked the extra point for the Ole Miss 7-0 halftime lead.

Stevens, voted the outstanding player of the game, was continually spilled for losses in the first 2½ quarters but the senior quarterback, who was closing his collegiate career with a NCAA record 52 touchdown passes, completed 13 of 26 passes for 155 yards against Ole Miss.

Carr, named the most valuable lineman of the game, was in on five tackles while El Paso defensive halfback Eugene Epps made 10 unassisted tackles and intercepted a fourth-quarter Ole Miss pass.

Four Major Bowl Games End Year

By The Associated Press

Southern California puts its national prestige on the line, unbeaten Wyoming makes its first appearance in a major post-season tilt, Alabama comes of age and Tennessee and Oklahoma match high-powered offenses Monday.

That's when college football officially closes out the 1967 campaign and rings in the New Year with the four big bowl games — the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange. Six among the teams placed in the final national rankings.

The matchups are Southern California, 9-1, vs. Indiana, 9-1, in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.; Wyoming, 10-0, vs. Louisiana State, 6-3-1, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans; Alabama, 8-1-1, vs. Texas A&M, 6-4, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and Oklahoma, 9-1, vs. Tennessee, 9-1, in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla. The latter is the only night game.

Tennessee, LSU and Alabama are one-touchdown favorites while Southern Cal is a two-touchdown choice to beat the Hoosiers, playing in the Pasadena classic for the first time.

Field Day For Fans It'll be a field day for football fans who may be too exhausted from the previous night's celebrating to do much more than struggle to within viewing range of their television sets.

About 320,000 persons are expected to see the games in person. Anticipated attendances are 100,000 for the Rose Bowl, 75,000 for the Sugar and Cotton and 70,000 for the Orange Bowl.

Anderson Sparks North To 22-16 Blue-Gray Edge

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—All America Dick Anderson of Colorado scored two touchdowns on long punt returns Saturday to give the North a 22-16 victory in the Blue-Gray football game.

The 6-2, 198-pound defensive back from Boulder, Colo., scampered 69 yards for one score in the first period and 62 yards for another touchdown in the final quarter.

Anderson's second scoring run almost came to a halt at midfield, but big McKinley Boston of Minnesota broke him loose with a ferocious block. Anderson himself had wriggled free from two tacklers before he got into the open.

Never before in the 29-year history of the all-star game had any player managed to run more than one punt back for a touchdown.

Anderson's performance won him the most valuable player award on the balloting in the press box.

The rest of the Yankee scoring came on a safety in the closing minutes of the game and from the kicking toe of Joe Azaro of Notre Dame. Azaro booted field goals of 32 and 26 yards and scored one point after touchdown.

The safety went onto the scoreboard when halfback Bobby Duhan of Tulane was tackled in the South's end zone.

Not Much Punch Except for Anderson's spectacular punt returns, the Yankees exhibited a rather dismal offensive punch. They went for more than two quarters without a first down and managed to gain only four yards in the second period, three of those on a pass.

A near sellout crowd of 23,350 and uncounted millions of others on national television saw the Yanks win their second game in a row and their 13th in the Blue-Gray series.

The South's offense was generated primarily by quarterback Ronny South of Arkansas. He threw two touchdown passes and kicked a 35 yard field goal.

The 193-pound senior from Russellville, Ark., who gained more than 1,100 yards in passing during the regular season this year, found Freddie Hyatt of Auburn on the receiving end of both scoring passes.

One of them traveled 58 yards, a Blue-Gray record. Blue 3 7 3 9—22
Gray 0 10 6 0—16

Lombardi Warriors Go For 3rd Straight

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Green Bay's solid old professionals, fresh from an inspired victory over Los Angeles, are favored to make football history against the explosive Dallas Cowboys in Sunday's National Football League title game at Lambeau Field.

Vince Lombardi's battle-tested warriors are shooting for an unprecedented third straight playoff title against a Cowboy team that blew Cleveland out of the Cotton Bowl last Sunday, 52-14 for the Eastern Conference crown.

A sellout crowd of 50,861 is expected to watch in frigid weather while the Packers and Cowboys battle for a winner's share of about $7,800 each and a chance at the $15,000 jackpot in the Super Bowl Jan. 14 at Miami against the American Football League champion.

The game shapes up as a brutal battle up front between the Packers' rebuilt interior line and the Cowboys' Domsday Defense that will determine whether Bart Starr can recapture the magic that led Green Bay to a 34-27 victory in a dramatic thriller last Jan. 1 at the Cotton Bowl.

When Dallas has the ball it will be the same type of struggle by Willie Davis and Co. to try to charge past the Cowboys' protective curtain for Dandy Don Meredith, the erratic but often brilliant passer.

Memories of last New Year's Day championship game still are fresh in both camps. Dallas has lived all year with its failure to cash in on a first-down-and-one situation on the Packer two-yard line in the final seconds and the final frustration when Tom Brown intercepted a Meredith pass thrown with Packer Dave Robinson draped around his shoulder.

Bob Hayes, billed as the fastest human, caught only one pass in that memorable game when he was shadowed by Green Bay's Bob Jeter and Herb Adderley. He caught only two when the Packers beat the Cowboys 20-3 in an Aug. 23 exhibition game.

If the Cowboys are to upend the one-touchdown favorites it will be up to Meredith to hit Hayes and Lance Rentzel, the speedy flanker, while establishing ball control on the running of Dan Reeves, Don Perkins and rookie Craig Baynam.

On National TV The game will be carried on national television and radio (CBS) at 2 p.m. EST with the Green Bay and Wausau areas blacked out on TV.

If Lombardi is to reach his goal of three in a row, Starr must get time to pick the Cowboy defense apart with his third-down passes to Carroll Dale and Boyd Dowler while maintaining possession with the running of his injury-riddled backfield corps.

Travis Williams, the Packers' spectacular rookie running back who set an NFL record by returning four kickoffs for touchdowns, will share the running chores with Donny Anderson.

The Nittany Lions blew their halftime lead with a wild gamble and a costly fumble after controlling the first half with the help of defensive surprises prepared in 10 days of secret drills and the clutch passing of quarterback Tom Sherman.

But the surging Seminoles came back after Penn State gambled and failed on a fourth and one situation in the third quarter on their own 15.

Hammond tossed a 20-yard scoring strike to All-American end Ron Sellers and when Penn State fumbled away the following kickoff, Hammond capped a 22-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown leap.

Grant Gutherie kicked a 25-yard field goal with 15 seconds left to give the Seminoles a tie, something Florida State Coach Bill Peterson said he would never settle for in a bowl game.

Hammond hit on 37 of 53 passes for 362 yards, shattering Gator Bowl records in all departments, and Sellers hauled in 14 catches for 145 yards with his receptions setting a new standard.

Sherman was erratic but hit when he had to, tossing a nine-yard pass to Jack Curry late in the second quarter and then hitting Ted Kwalick with a 12-yard scoring strike just before the half.

The Lions, shuffling their defensive backfield to cope with the Seminole passing attack, kept Florida State off balance in the first half, and got great running from sophomore halfback Charlie Pittman.

The 182-pound speedster gained 105 yards rushing in the first half, but added only 19 in the last two quarters when the Seminoles took charge of the battle played before a record crowd of 68,019.

Penn State gained only 37 yards rushing and did not complete a pass in the second half. But the Lions kept the Seminoles from scoring a winning touchdown in the final seconds, with defensive back Frank Spaziani knocking a desperation pass out of the grasping hands of Sellers in the end zone with 20 seconds left.

Unitas And Jones Head NEA All-NFL

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Baltimore Colts for the offense, the Green Bay Packers and the Los Angeles Rams for the defense—that theme dominates the 1967 All-Players All-Pro team announced today by Newspaper Enterprise Association.

Johnny Unitas, the incomparable quarterback of the Colts, was a virtually unanimous choice for his position. David (Deacon) Jones of the Rams is solidly ensconced at one defensive end, with no opposition. And Dave Robinson, the strong side corner backer for the Packers, was a runaway selection on the same defensive unit. The Colts placed three men on offense, the Rams and Packers three each on defense.

The two other solid vote-getters on this 22-man squad were the running backs—Gale Sayers of Chicago and Cleveland's Leroy Kelly—who attracted the same unanimity of opinion a year ago.

But not all positions were clear-cut. At tight end on offense John Mackey of the Colts barely nudged out the Smith boys, Jerry of Washington and Jackie of St. Louis. For the flanker spot, Homer Jones of New York won by a neck over Bob Hayes of Dallas in a race between the two fastest men in the league. Ralph Neely, Hayes' teammate, would certainly have mustered more support for a tackle spot if he hadn't been impeded by injuries this year. The center job was no snap for Minnesota's Mick Tingelhoff with Bob DeMarco of St. Louis around.

On defense, there was a tight three-way tussle at middle line-backer, with Dick Butkus of Chicago nosing out Tommy Nobis of Atlanta and Ray Nitschke of Green Bay. One corner-way on team not noted for defense was closely contested between Dave Wilcox of San Francisco, the winner, and Chuck Howley of Dallas, a '66 choice.

The voting, conducted by NEA, came from the finest judges of all—the 640 players on the 16 teams in the NFL. Their selections, narrowed down to the 22 positions on offense and defense, will be graphically presented on a special pregame show prepared by the Columbia Broadcasting Company to precede the telecast of the National Football League championship game on Dec. 31.

These are the men who'll be seen in vivid filmed action:

OFFENSE
John Mackey, Colts, tight end—Combination gazelle and bull, top-notch blocker who's also best deep threat for Unitas bombs.

Charley Taylor, Redskins, split end—No better runner after he catches the ball. Less than two years on the job. Wait'll he gets acclimated!

Homer Jones, Giants, flanker—"He oughta be outlawed," says Cards' Charley Winner. Homer's not much when not catching ball, but who cares?

Bob Vogel, Colts, tackle—Could be smallest offensive tackle in league, but he's steady pass protector, an all-pro repeater.

Ernie McMillan, Cards, tackle—Finally getting recognition he probably deserved couple of years ago. Strong at moving people out.

Gene Hickerson, Browns, guard—Erstwhile messenger man now sends out his own signals as path sweeper for strong Cleveland running.

Howard Mudd, 49ers, guard—If there's a surprise in the array, he's it. But not to the players who've had to climb over him.

Mick Tingelhoff, Vikings, center—Steady pluggers whose forte is picking up blitzes. A free agent who made it on his own.

John Unitas, Colts, quarterback—The nonpareil. Success won't spoil him. Added another notch to his all-time target shooting.

They will be presented with individual trophies and certificates to designate their selection. Larry Wilson, Cardinals, safety—Not as spectacular as in '66, but that's because other teams were playing away from him.

Ed Meador, Rams, safety—Maybe not as gifted physically as some, but compensates by always being in right spot. Smart competitor.

Reverse Libel Judgement Given Former Coach

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The Washington State Supreme Court reversed 6-2 Saturday a $175,000 libel judgment granted former University of Washington basketball Coach John Grayson because of an article about him in the Saturday Evening Post.

The court ordered a new trial, saying that Grayson, although not a public official, was "a public figure in which the public has a justified and important interest."

The Curtis Publishing Co. publisher of the Post, contended that the U.S. Supreme Court decision prohibiting public officials from collecting damages for nonmalicious statements about their public conduct should apply to Grayson's suit.

The majority opinion, written by Judge Robert Hunter, agreed.

Judge Frank Hale, in a dissenting opinion in which Judge Hugh Rosellini joined, said the courts would "do great mischief to the long-cherished common-law ambition that for every wrong, there is a remedy" if this doctrine was extended "to every libel case involving persons of prominence."

The suit was based on an article by Al Lightner of Salem, Ore., at the time a basketball referee, as told to a freelance writer, Al Stump. It appeared in the Jan. 5-12, 1963, edition of the Post.

Blasts 'Bullies' Lightner criticized what he called "basketball's bullies, reckless coaches, rowdy players and riotous fans who disgrace our colleges." Grayson was named as an example of "explosive bench behavior."

Four months after the article appeared, the university declined to renew Grayson's contract as head basketball coach. He failed to obtain employment for the 1963-64 season and sued Curtis for $300,000.

OAKLAND, Calif. — (NEA) — Daryle Lamonica was beginning to think maybe he should have been an aspirin tablet. In the role of a second-string quarterback at Buffalo for four years, his job was to deliver quick relief.

When he was traded to Oakland this season he got the chance to prove he was just as effective with the score 0-0 as when it was 42-0. He made so much of his chance that the Raiders clinched the AFL's Western Division championship two weeks before the season ended.

"There's no comparison in being a reliever and a starter," Daryle says. "A quarterback needs four quarters to prove himself. When I was playing in relief we were usually behind, and it's pretty tough when the defense knows you're going to throw."

"A quarterback needs a chance to work on his game plan, to get the feeling of how things are going and set up certain plays for particular opponents. In my case, I had to adjust to a complicated offense."

He adjusted rather well. Lamonica is the leading passer in the AFL. However, his success didn't come easily.

"Sometimes I would send guys into a formation we don't even have," says Lamonica. "They'd just line up the way I should have called it. They were real patient with me. I knew I had to earn their respect because Tom Flores had been well-liked. It takes awhile to become a seasoned leader although I always felt I could be."

Lamonica felt before the season started that the Raiders could be a contender because of exceptional depth at nearly every position—but he, admits he didn't know just how good they were.

"When the exhibition season began I realized there were no slouches here and that if I could get the points we would be winners," he said. "All I needed was the opportunity."

Lamonica, a native of Fresno, Calif., had been an All-American at Notre Dame but spent most of his time on the sidelines at Buffalo. His second year there, 1946, he came off the bench on five different occasions to lead the Bills to victory.

This year, the Raiders gave up Flores and Art Powell to give Lamonica the chance to prove he wasn't a second-stringer.

"If a guy is content with being No. 2 he doesn't belong in this league," he said. Daryle Lamonica tried harder and now he's No. 1.

And he no longer feels like an aspirin. His new job is to give the opposition headaches.

MILKIN TAKES FIFTH QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Jerry Hill with 25 points and Jesse Price with 21 led Milklin to a 70-43 victory over Northeast Missouri Saturday for fifth place in the Quincy College Basketball Tournament.

Paul Ouzg topped the losers with 30 points. Northeast Missouri trailed 48-31 at halftime.

St. Benedict's of Kansas captured third place with a 74-70 conquest of host Quincy. Darryl Jones hit 10 of his total 16 points in a last half rally after the Kansas trailed 43-38 at halftime. Vince DeGreeff, however, topped the winners with 21 points.

Mike Mathews headed Quincy with 22.

That Was The Week That Was For Jets

SAN DIEGO — (NEA) — Everyone has days when he wishes he had stayed in bed. Ever had a whole week when you felt that way?

The New York Jets had one recently — a week that has probably been experienced by all pro sports teams on occasion. It started when the Jets lost to Kansas City in a game that could have given New York undisputed possession of first place in the AFL's eastern division.

The weather in Gotham had been wind, rainy and cold and more of the same was forecast. So coach Weeb Ewbank decided to take his club to sunny California early in the week to prepare for the crucial game with Oakland.

ing to take the passengers up to the terminal to wait for another flight. When they got there, the doors stuck and somebody had to kick them open to get off the bus.

Everyone then headed for the bar or the waiting room to relax while another plane was being readied. Abner Haynes told jokes. The real fun was yet to come.

This time the squad boarded a jet for the 26-minute flight to San Diego. A few moments later the plane was in a storm. Visibility was nil. Shelley Berman again: "Uh, gentlemen . . . we're approaching San Diego and have been advised the instrument landing system there has been short-circuited . . . we will . . . uh . . . circle about 15 miles out over the Pacific until it's fixed."

A sportswriter started typing a story. Someone suggested he put it in a bottle and throw it in the ocean. A reserve player mumbled something about making the front page the hard way. Another reminded him that Namath wasn't on the flight so they'd probably be on page 2 or 3.

The pilot came on again: "The trouble has been fixed and we'll try an approach soon. There are two other planes circling. We'll go in after them."

"Yeah, let's see how they do," someone said.

The team landed at San Diego International Airport five hours after taking off from Oakland, the same amount of time it normally takes to fly from New York to California. George Sauer slept through the whole thing.

Inside the terminal, a couple of players found their baggage had been split open while being unloaded but did not mind, now that they were on the ground. Defensive line coach J. D. Donaldson smiled for the first time in two days.

Next morning the Jets headed for Escondido (about 30 miles from San Diego) where it was, of course, raining. Ewbank learned the players who had gone to Las Vegas would be late arriving because of mechanical difficulty on their plane. Defensive tackle Paul Rochester, who had lost his raincoat, threatened to write a book. Back at the hotel, traveling secretary John Free said: "There is a lot more to football than just running up and down the field."

Everyone agreed and ordered another drink.

East Stifles Beban And West For 16-14 Margin

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A strong ground game and a defense that completely stifled All-American Gary Beban of UCLA gave the East a 16-14 triumph over the West in the 43rd annual Shrine charity football game Saturday.

Notre Dame's All-American Kevin Hardy, Toledo's Tom Beutler — a substitute on the East squad — and Minnesota's John Williams spent so much time in the West backfield that Beban might have thought they were teammates—if they had not dumped him for losses so often.

The East took a 3-0 first-quarter lead, and was ahead, 9-7 at the half after the teams exchanged 37-yard touchdowns in the second period.

Before a sellout crowd of 48,000 in Candlestick Park, the East went ahead 16-7 in the third period.

Quarterback Gary Davis of Vanderbilt gambled with fourth down and three yards to go but couldn't find a receiver and ran four yards into the end zone.

The West came back with a touchdown in the fourth quarter on Beban's five-yard pass to Phil Odle of Brigham Young, his chief but seldom-hit target all afternoon.

A 28-yard pass to San Diego State's Haven Moses had set it up. Moses caught the earlier West touchdown pass.

The West had started on the East 37-yard line. A 58-yard punt by Bob Lee of University of the Pacific went out on their three-yard line and the East was forced to punt.

Davis and Hardy were voted the game's outstanding offensive and defensive players.

Winners Come Back From 15 Points Down

By Buford Green Sports Editor

WAVERLY—Glenwood roared from 15 points down in the third quarter to nip Northwestern 69-68 and capture the 17th annual Waverly Holiday Tournament title, before a full house here Friday evening.

Northwestern's Larry Anderson had a chance to send the game into overtime with a pair of free throws after the gun had sounded, but missed the first to seal the Wildcats' defeat.

Both outfits had several chances to take control in the final minutes before a pair of decisive free throws by Glenwood and a costly goal-tending call against Northwestern turned out to be the deciding factors.

Triopia claimed the consolation bracket championship with a surprisingly easy 58-33 victory over Franklin in the afternoon, and Pawnee took home third spot in the championship bracket with a 77-65 decision over Virden.

Down 55-40 with 3:20 to play in the third period, Glenwood roared back behind the remarkably long-range bombs of 5-8 guard Gary Salefski. The Redskins closed to 57-51 entering the final eight minutes and quickly shot to a four point lead with 5:40 left in the game.

Ed Scroggins and Gates continued to propel the eventual losers early in the third period, and Northwestern boosted the margin to 55-40 with 3:20 showing.

Glenwood Gets Hot

From there Glenwood threw in 11 of the next 13 points, including four straight long bombs by Salefski, and trailed only 57-51 after three quarters.

Salefski's hot hand then shot Glenwood ahead 61-59 and 65-63, with 3:45 to play. Gates and Roger Crawford each hit a pair of charity throws to knot the game at 67-67.

Triopia's good-defense, deliberate offensive game forced the running Franklin outfit out of its style and controlled the game from the start. The Trojans led 13-5 after eight minutes then tied their third victory against a loss when Franklin went scoreless in the third stanza.

Roger Muncy canned 29 points for Pawnee in the third-place victory, while Mike Perino hit 24 for the losing Virden outfit.

A CLINIC OF EXHIBITS

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Besides having some of the nation's top football coaches on hand, the National Football Clinic included 82 exhibits.

The booths contained the latest in game film equipment, football gear, various training devices, a tape remover and a spray for the athlete who perspires.

Jim Cody of Dallas, manager of an athletic pharmaceutical firm, says he attends about 62 clinics a year. Claude Bell of Binghamton, N.Y., says he takes in about 35 a year.

DuSABLE TRIMS CRANE

CHICAGO (AP) — Heralded Crane Tech, rated No. 8 in the state, was upset by DuSable, 70-67, in double overtime in the Chicago Public League High School Holiday Basketball Tournament Friday.

It was the second title triumph in the eight-year-old tourney for DuSable.

Pittsburgh Pirate farm system teams this year are Columbus, Ohio; Macon, Ga.; Raleigh, N.C.; Clinton, Iowa; Gastonia, N.C.; and Salem, Va.

Piston Dave Bing: 'Quick-Draw' Artist

By IRA BERKOW NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK (NEA)—There is a legion of sports fans in America that would rather watch endless parades of elephants in "Aida" than see endless scoring in National Basketball Association games.

To them, pro basketball is even more soporific than an opera.

Others, though, view pro ball as a contest which combines the best and most demanding aspects of physical prowess. It is a game of endurance, power, intricate skill, speed, timing and split-second decisions.

Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons, the newest superstar in the NBA, exemplifies the grace and artistry that captures the imagination of the latter group.

For the most of the early part of this season, Bing has topped the league with a near 30-point per game average. He is also close to the top in assists. Last season when he won NBA Rookie of the Year honors, he averaged 20 points a game and had 330 assists, leading his club in both categories.

But these statistics are also sleep-inducing. To see Bing in action, though, is an awakening.

The gaunt guard with large, sad eyes employs the legendary main of Mandrake, picking off passes, intercepting an opponent's dribble and shoulder-faking his guard into the front-row seats.

However, his teammates are often befuddled, too, which is one of his problems.

In a recent game against the New York Knicks, Bing stole a ball, went the length of the court with a man on him, went up for the shot, then passed behind his back to teammate John Tresvant, who trailed. The ball bounced off Tresvant's chest. "He sometimes passes off when he shouldn't," said Piston Dave DeBusschere.

"When a big man runs all the way on a fast break," said Bing, "I think he deserves the shot."

At the beginning of the year, coach Donniss Butcher told Dave to shoot more, that he wanted 25-30 points per game from him. Dave is shooting more but, it seems, still not enough.

Bing has the rare ability, on drives and jumps shots, to stay in the air for hours, like a puppet on strings from the rafters. Or like Elgin Baylor, from whom he picked up pointers on Washington, D.C., sandlots.

"He has created more interest in the game of basketball in Detroit than any single personality," said Butcher.

In Detroit, even opera buffs sing of Bing.

BIG TEN SETS RECORD

CHICAGO (AP) — For the third straight year football attendance in the Big Ten exceeded the three million mark.

Fifty-four home games drew a record 3,080,445 fans for an average of 57,045 per game.

The previous high mark was set in 1965 when 3,054,643 fans attended 54 games.

WON SOME BIG ONES

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Navy's football team gave up 253 points in 1967 and stored only 205 points, but the Midshipmen won some big games.

The Naval Academy eleven opened by beating Penn State 23-22, took Syracuse 27-14 in its fourth game and upset Army by 19-14. The Middies won five, lost four and tied one.

Unitas Wins Thorpe Cup

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It would be difficult to convince the Baltimore Colts there's still truth in the old cliché, "One game doesn't make a season."

But when the legend of 1967 is finally inscribed, there will be a true assessment of their achievement in losing just one game in 14 — and of the incomparable performance of a 34-year-old quarterback.

He has the scars of many physical contacts and a burrlike shoulder that crimps his chief talent, throwing a football.

He is also the greatest of all modern quarterbacks and has been announced today by Newspaper Enterprise Association as the winner of the 1967 Jim

Thorpe Memorial Trophy.

The award signifies his rank as the outstanding player in the National Football League. To appreciate how long John

Unitas has been the dominant force in pro football, note that he won his first Jim Thorpe trophy in 1957, when he was a sophomore in the NFL.

The jury for this award is composed of the 640 active players on the 16 teams, polled by

NEA, and they awarded him

this year's trophy with definitive tributes.

"I don't feel anyone is in a class with John this year," commented Bart Starr, the quarterback of the Green Bay

Packers. "He has been superb

all year and the Colt's record indicates what he means to them."

Bart had been the equally impressive recipient of the Jim

Thorpe trophy last year.

"No one close to Unitas,"

said Tommy Mason of their chief rivals and conquerors, the

Los Angeles Rams.

The NFL players voted for three choices in numerical order, excluding teammates in their balloting.

"I am leaving the first place vote blank," noted Lou

Michaels, his Colt teammate,

"because I believe John Unitas

should win it."

The appreciation of Unitas

by his compatriots, the men he plays with and against, has never been stronger.

Unitas' only serious competitors were his aides in the NEA all-pro backfield this year, also selected by the players:

Leroy Kelly of Cleveland.

Gale Sayers of Chicago.

Johnny will be with them in Los Angeles for the official presentation of his trophy at the all-pro party in CBS Television City, Hollywood, on Jan.

18. It will be filmed and shown nationally by CBS during halftime of the Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles on Jan. 21.

Morgan ACP Projects In 1968 Number 22

Morgan county farmers and landowners are offered 22 different share-cost programs this year under the provisions of the Federal Agricultural Conservation Program, announced Wallace T. Hembrough, ASC office manager.

Initial sign-up for individual projects begins Jan. 2 and ends Jan. 26, at the ASC office on Permac Road, Jacksonville.

Practices offered in Morgan county this year are:

- A-2 — Pasture or meadow development.
- A-4 (A) — Growing legumes and grasses for soil improvement and protection through the use of limestone.
- A-4 (B) — Growing legumes and grasses for soil improvement and protection through the use of rock phosphate.
- A-7 — Planting trees for forestry purposes.
- B-7 — Farm ponds.
- B-10 — Forest improvement or protection.
- C-1 — Sod waterways.
- C-2 — Critical area seeding.
- C-4 — Terraces.
- C-5 — Diversions.
- C-6 — Erosion control dams.
- C-7 (A) — Structures for water control.

ter channel and outlet protection.

- C-7 (A) — Tile outlets.
- D-1 — Winter cover seedings.
- E-2 — Contouring intertilled crops.

F-1 (B) — Tile lines associated with tile outlets.

F-1 (O) — Pipelines for live-stock water.

F-2 (A) — Channel improvement.

F-2 (B) — Conservation tillage.

G-1 — Cover for wildlife.

G-3 — Fish ponds.

H-1 — Beautification - Conservation.

Anyone interested in any of the above listed practices must file an official request before the practice is started and the work completed must be within a specified time according to all requirements and specifications.

After the basic sign-up period requests will be considered as long as funds are available for the practice requested, Hembrough noted.

Limestone and rock phosphate requests made now must be completed by July 31, or sign-up again during the second sign-up period, the first two weeks in August.

In all cases a soil test must be on file before an approval can be issued. The required grasses and legumes must be retained on the land for the required time.

For all other practices there will be a reasonable period of time allowed for the accomplishment of the conservation work that has been approved.

The Soil Conservation Service, forestry personnel and game biologists cooperate in extending technical assistance when necessary.

FARM DEBT IS UP!

Farm debt continued to mount in 1967, but not as fast as in 1966. Although credit remained tight and interest charges high, total agricultural loans outstanding increased faster than in any other year except for 1966. The increase can be attributed largely to a sharp rise in credit for non-real estate purposes. Outstanding loans secured by real estate mortgages actually rose less than in 1966.

The Department of Agriculture expects the nation's farm debt at year end to total $48.6 billion, up $4.1 billion from last year. Non-real estate loans made typically to finance purchases of machinery, livestock, and feed and to pay taxes, wages and other current expenses are expected to account for $2.4 billion of the projected increase. Farm mortgage loans outstanding are expected to be $1.7 billion more than last year. The USDA expects total farm debt to increase further in 1968.

Farm Co-op Manager Retires

J. D. BUNTING

J. D. Bunting, the manager of the Morgan County Service Co., retired Saturday after slightly more than 28 years with the farm supply cooperative.

Members of the cooperative will give a reception for him and Mrs. Bunting Sunday afternoon, Jan. 7, at the Dunlap Motor Inn, and they invite friends of the Buntings "to drop in," between 2 to 4 p.m.

The Morgan-Scott Service Co. was organized in April, 1927, and Bunting came here upon the resignation of the late Claude Jewsbury, who had served as manager for nine years. The Scott County Service Co. became a separate organization in 1945.

During Bunting's tenure here the cooperative has grown vastly. Sales in 1939 were $370,949. Volume grew regularly, year after year. The million dollar sales mark was hit in 1951 and last year rose to $1,839,093. During his administration patronage dividends added up to just a little less than two million dollars.

James David It was just by coincidence that James David Bunting was born in Massac county, the extreme tip of the state. His family was an early one in Edwards county, which touches the Wabash river on the east side of the state.

But his father was a steam engine man — busy throughout the summer with a threshing rig and through the other months with a sawmill. In March, 1903, the elder Bunting was sawing lumber in Massac county.

J. D. attended grade school and high school in Albion, Edwards county, and then went to the University of Illinois where he studied business administration, graduating in 1926.

To Utility Firm Then he went to work for the Northern Illinois Public Service Co. and was put in charge of the accounts receivable department at Waukegan.

But in 1930 the farmers in Edwards county decided to form the farm supply company, No. 7 in Illinois. They needed a manager, so they looked up and hired J. D., at $100 per month, and he to furnish his own car, a Model A Ford.

The home office was in Grayville. After two years there he went to the Iroquois County Service Co., with headquarters in Watseka, and stayed there for eight years before coming to Morgan.

"You might say I've had only four jobs in my life," he observed.

To Sandusky Road At Albion, March 20, 1932, he married Miss Margaret Stanhope. Soon after coming to Jacksonville they moved to their present home on Sandusky road, which they have improved vastly through the years.

Among his friends he became known as a man who knew how to keep a fine flock of chickens that laid deluxe eggs, who had bees that made the sweetest honey, who had a garden that turned out the most tasty vegetables.

There were two children, James M. who is now in charge

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

CORN LOSSES HEAVY IN FOUR STATES

Most Illinois farmers produced more corn this year than ever before, but they have had a hard time getting it harvested, dried, and stored. The Cooperative Crop Reporting Service in Springfield says that about 30 percent of the crop was still in the field on Dec. 5. Some areas had as much as 50 percent of the corn crop still standing in the field on that date.

The harvest started about a week later than normal, and it got further behind each week. By Dec. 1, the harvesting was about a month later than usual. It now appears that the windup may be 3 months late! Field losses are sure to be heavy.

The normal progress of corn harvest in Illinois is as follows:

About 10 percent of the crop is harvested by Oct. 7.

About 60 percent is brought in by Nov. 1.

About 90 percent of the corn crop usually is harvested by Nov. 25.

Losses in other states. Farmers in Indiana and Ohio were delayed even more than those in Illinois. They had been able to harvest only half their crops by early December.

Farmers in Missouri were in the same boat as those in Illinois: They had about one-third of their crop left in the field on the first of December. (There was enough water in some Illinois fields to float a boat.)

In most other states, the harvest was finished nearly on schedule.

Field losses will be heavy. The long-range weather forecast for the Corn Belt for December was "more rain (or snow) than normal." The first 10 days brought frequent rains here at Urbana and to many other areas.

Loss Totals. How much corn will be lost in the fields? And how will this loss affect market supplies and prices?

The losses will be mostly in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. In early November, the production of corn in these four states was estimated at 2,025 million bushels — about 43 percent of the nation's crop.

We estimate that about 750 million bushels of corn was still in the fields in these four states in early December. A 10-percent loss would be 75 million bushels; a 20-percent loss would take 150 million bushels.

Earlier this fall, it appeared that the 1967 corn crop was in excess of domestic and foreign needs by some 200 to 400 million bushels. (The amount of expected excess depended on who was doing the figuring.) Consequently, the carryover next Oct. 1 appeared likely to be well over the 840 million bushels carried over this past October.

The 1968 carryover was forecast variously, from 1,050 to as much as 1,300 million bushels. Now, however, it appears that the carryover will be in a lower range—though still more than the 840 million bushels carried over last Oct. 1. With such a cushion still in sight, corn buyers have not become panicky.

In summary, about 85 percent of the nation's corn crop has been harvested, while 15 percent is still out in the fields. Some part of this is lost each day. But no real shortage of corn is yet in view.

LESS WOOL HERE; MORE EVERYWHERE

U.S. short wool production in 1968 is expected to be slightly smaller than the 189 million pounds, grease basis, produced this year.

The prospect for a smaller wool clip is based on reduced sheep numbers during 1967.

Domestic output is declining, but world wool production is headed for a record. World production is forecast to increase moderately during 1967 to a new high of 3,437 million pounds, clean basis.

Build a fire in the fireplace.

Wear your Christmas clothes.

Drive carefully.

Eat sensibly.

Watch the Rose Parade and the Bowl games.

Warm water for livestock.

Check your weight and take necessary action.

Bring those record books up to date. The income tax deadline is not far away. Take time to do a thorough job of summarizing the farm business. An inventory is a good way of taking stock of learning your net worth, etc. It is necessary if you use the accrual method of filing your income tax. It is not necessary if you use the cash method but it is well worth the time to help you see your own financial position and may be of value when you consider buying new equipment, borrowing money, renting more land, etc.

May 1968 be prosperous and meaningful to you and yours.

Farm Bureau-FFA Conference Stresses Role Of Individual

The president of the Illinois Agricultural association (state-wide Farm Bureau) told more than 425 high school Future Farmers of America members the American system of individual initiative still provides the greatest opportunity for personal success of any economic system in the world.

William J. Kuhfuss, IAA president, spoke in the opening session of the annual Farm Bureau-FFA holiday conference in Bloomington-Normal December 27-29. Kuhfuss said:

"The rights of the individual are the key issue in personal success. Many places in the world have natural resources equal to ours in the United States, but the people lack individual incentive because of actions by their government. The edge we in America have over the rest of the world is that we're free to make an honest living in nearly any field we choose and, more than that, we are free to change our minds and choose a completely different type of occupation if we want to."

The conference is sponsored by the Illinois Agricultural Association and affiliated companies. Most conference events were held on the campus of Illinois State University but a tour of the IAA Building provided the FFA members an opportunity to see first-hand how cooperatives operate to serve Illinois farmers.

The late P. Hal Sims was the world's greatest auction bridge player, as we have often said. He carried his skill into contract and was the greatest contract bridge player in the early days of the new game.

One of Hal's rules for bidding was that the grand slam bonus was not big enough to warrant risking game and the small slam bonus, so that you should be particularly careful with grand slam bids. In fact, Hal would say, "I don't need to bid grand slams at all. If I do, I try to place them in no-trump. Trumps may not break or something may get ruffed in a suit contract. At no-trump these things can't happen to me."

Today's hand justifies Hal's theory about no-trump. With any decent break in spades there are 14 top tricks in either no-trump or spades. With all five spades in one hand, there are only 12 top tricks in no-trump and only 12 tricks of all kinds in spades.

At first glance it looks as if there is no real play for seven no-trump, but that is not the case. South was able to work out a perfect double squeeze for his grand slam.

It didn't require any super-skill—merely careful timing to develop the squeeze. The order of the early tricks did not matter too much. The important thing was to get out of dummy's way in the majors and to take the three top diamonds before running what spades South could. Actually he cashed his high spades and hearts and three diamond tricks. Then he entered dummy with the ace of clubs and played the king of hearts. West had been forced to discard a heart on the third diamond. He had to drop a club on the heart king. Then South cashed the king and jack of spades. East had to come down to two cards. One of them had to be a diamond, so he had to let a club go also. South discarded his last diamond and made the last two tricks with clubs.

Tractor Safety — A Door Prize!

JOHN DEERE OF MOLINE, ILL., have been fashioning farm implements ever since the namesake invented the steel plow.

They have something new this year, although they have been tinkering and fusing with it for several years—a device they call the "Roll-Gard."

It's a protective device that tractor operators working around dangerous grounds need, ditches, gulleys, sloughs.

The company is publicizing its new product by giving away 3,000 of the guards in cooperation with as many of their dealers in the better agricultural centers of the nation.

The photo above shows Harry Lee Hall, of Hall Bros., South Main street, seated in a tractor equipped with the new "Roll-Gard." Harry is the current proprietor of Hall Bros., the oldest John Deere dealer in Illinois so far as John Deere knows. The local company has been selling Deere products since 1914.

The publicity man of John Deere sent us this material, but he didn't mention the price. Which is $219.75, as you see it above, and with the safety belt which you can't see.

The story behind Roll-Gard . . . Farm safety is not a new subject. Many dedicated people throughout the farm equipment industry have been doing something about it for a long time.

When it was first brought to light that a major percentage of tractor fatalities resulted from tip-overs, John Deere engineers began a study to determine the cause and then seek a remedy. It soon became evident that tip-overs usually result from careless operation. The answer was to provide protection for the operator in the event he did tip his tractor.

First step was to find out what happens when a tractor tips over. John Deere engineers made an extensive series of tests deliberately tipping tractors sideways and flipping them backwards. They used special mannequins and elaborate electronic equipment in place of real operators to record what happened. These tests proved that when a tractor tipped or flipped, it invariably rolled more than 90 degrees. These tests also showed that an upset of 120 degrees or more usually caused serious or fatal injury.

Armed with this knowledge, the engineers began actual design work. Several prototypes were developed and tested, reworked and retested in actual tip-overs until one was found that measured up to the rigid present engineering standards. The result is John Deere Roll-Gard, a protective frame that in most cases stops roll-overs at 90 degrees and is strong enough to support the weight of the tractor if it tips or rolls all the way. Seat belts are regularly furnished with Roll-Gard because the tests showed that this combination will normally prevent serious injury.

Farmers and their wives registering for the "Farm Frontiers 1968" show narrated by Chet Huntley of NBC News will be eligible to win a "Roll-Gard," the first in their neighborhood. Murrayville Implement Co. will present its program at the grade school at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday; Hall Bros. at Jacksonville High school at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, and Gordon Implement Co. at Riggston Jan. 18.

Views Illinois Bank-Farmer Relationship

Illinois lenders and farmers share one major interest — money.

And the amount of money farmers borrow from Illinois lenders amounts to hundreds of millions of dollars each year, reports J. M. Holcomb, U.I. Extension agricultural finance specialist.

Of Illinois' 1,053 insured commercial banks, 904 held farm loans totaling $778.4 million as of Jan. 1, 1967. In addition, bankers held $23.8 million of Commodity Credit Corporation paper for the federal government's farm price-support program.

Reporting from statistics released by the American Bankers' association's agricultural committee, Holcomb said Illinois creditors held $761.2 million in nonreal estate loans as of Jan. 1, 1967.

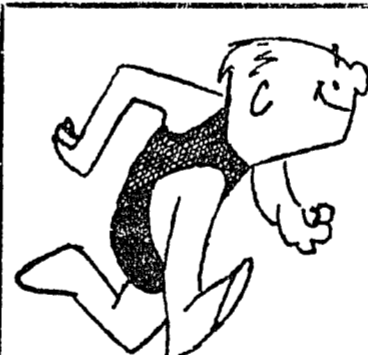

Nonreal estate loans repayable in one year are made to meet current operating and living expenses. Nonreal estate loans requiring more than a 12-month repayment program are made for investments in machinery, livestock and property improvements. These loans are usually not secured by farm real estate.

Of the $761.2 million in nonreal estate loans, banks accounted for $606.3 million, Production Credit association for $131.4 million and the Farmers Home administration for $23.5 million, Holcomb explained.

Farm real estate loans, secured by mortgages on farmland and improvements, totaled more than one billion dollars by Jan. 1, 1967. These loans reflected outlays for the purchase of farm units or additional land or both.

Commercial banks loaned $172.2 million for real estate loans; Federal Land banks, $257 million; life insurance companies, $330.8 million; individuals, $292.3 million; and the Farmers Home administration, $7.8 million, Holcomb said.

London Adopts Bonnie And Clyde

LONDON (AP) — Unlikely as it sounds, the "Bonnie and Clyde" look is London's latest fashion craze. According to the fashion press here, boutiques are snapping up anything that —s like the gear worn by the Texan gun moll, Bonnie Parker, when she was murderously rampaging around in the early 30s.

Hip-length sweaters with pockets and bells, and berets worn one-sided on long, lank hair are trademarks of the "Bonnie" style. But instead of the midcalf skirts in vogue then, some English girls are wearing them with extremely short miniskirts and sheer black stockings. Dressed to kill aptly describes the effect.

While some papers are tsks-ting about the morality of trying to look like a murderer, the Times goes further by calling it "sick," and points out that "clothes of that period have rarely been sillier or less becoming."

The English are showing a new all-around interest in American clothes, and in the Bonnie style in particular. When Liberty opened its Bonnie Cashin department some six years ago, it was the pioneer outpost of U.S. fashion in London. Now they report, "business is great."

Harrods, the Knightsbridge store where the Queen shops, has just opened an American Room, decorated in red, white and blue striped moire wallpaper, featuring such American designers as Jerry Silverman, Anne Fogarty and Malcolm Starr.

London also has its first American dress house. Women's Haberdashers, recently opened by New Yorker, Beth Liss.

Mrs. Eva Jiranek, who runs the Bonnie Cashin room, says forthrightly that in her opinion only the price limits the popularity of American fashion here. "There is a big gap between cheap English ready-to-wear which is designed only for the young, and expensive couture clothes that few can afford." She thinks it could be filled very well by medium-priced American fashion "in the 30 to 50 pound ($85 to $140) price range," and would be particularly welcomed by women age 30 to 50.

Most of her customers for Cashin casuals are country women from the "horsey and county set," actresses and models. Among them are Ingrid Bergman, Mrs. Peter O'Toole.

PNG CLUB HAS CHRISTMAS PARTY, DEC. 20

Nineteen members attended the Past Noble Grands Club of Caritas Rebekah Lodge 625 at the Blackhawk restaurant on Wednesday, December 20th.

Mildred Wilkinson offered a Christmas prayer. Hostesses for the evening meeting were Grace Benson and Mildred Wilkinson, and Pansy Lyons arranged the table decorations in keeping with the holiday season.

Pansy Lyons, president, welcomed the members and guests. Christmas meditations were given by Grace Benson, Nan Johnson sang Silent Night and was accompanied by Inez Canatsy.

For the social hour Christmas games were played with prizes going to Ruth Hoover, Lonnie Kitzelman, Maude Huggins, and Florence Marine. The group then sang Christmas carols and exchanged gifts.

The meeting was adjourned with Nan Johnson singing "How Great Thou Art." Guests present were Lois McKean, Nan Johnson, Inez Canatsy, and Sadie Sargeant.

the Duchess of Devonshire, Elizabeth Taylor ... and Mary Quant.

Cashin clothes are to order, and customers have to wait six or seven weeks for delivery. "It still takes us ten days to two weeks to clear customs on our American orders," Mrs. Jiranek sighs. "We have everything airfreighted. It adds to the price, but it would be impossible to do if we didn't."

Harrods say their customers find American clothes "fit, frightfully well, but you have to pick your particular designer."

Gals In White (Nurses) Hike The Hemline Too

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifi, the well-stacked maid in the French bedroom farces, was perhaps the first to wear a mini-uniform. But the idea of raised hemlines raised eyebrows in most institutions where the uniform was de rigueur—that is, it did until the mini-revolution really took over.

Now, at some hospitals, if not all, nurses are raising the morale of male patients (and the blood pressure perhaps) by raising their hemlines.

At Mount Sinai in New York,

PITTSFIELD — Danny Vencedel, Assistant Extension Advisor of Pike county, encourages young people to join the 4-H TV Action Club and learn what to do in case of a tornado, earthquake, flood, or any emergency.

If a youth wants to join he should ask his teacher to submit his name or contact the extension office in Pittsfield by calling 285-2281, the farm bureau building.

According to Vencedel, shortly after you send in your name, you will receive a 4-H pin, and a 4-H TV Action Club Manual. The program will be broadcast over Channel 10, WGEM, starting January 6 at 12:30 p.m. The program will run for a period of ten weeks.

Members of the Jolly Jax 4-H club sang Christmas carols to residents of the Melrose Nursing Center: Rosedale Shelter Care Home and the Bell Shelter Care Home on Dec. 21st. Mrs. Pat Rooker provided transportation for the girls and led in the singing.

Other adults accompanying the group were Mrs. Doyle and Mrs. Flick, leaders. Following caroling a 'dutch treat' was enjoyed at a local restaurant.

The Happy Workers 4-H club held a Christmas party at the home of Diane Flynn Dec. 20.

Elected as officers during the business session were: Cindy Wallace, president; Lauree Bowe, vice-president; Cindy Blesse, secretary; Kathy Foster, corresponding secretary; Susie Eilering, treasurer; Annette Fernandes, recreation chairman; Rita Doolin, co-chairman of recreation; Patty Beard and Donna Robinson, reporters.

Members exchanged gifts and each received a gift from the club leaders.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Patty Beard at 1 p.m. Jan. 10.

lined pocket. Of the good quality U.S. clothes on sale in London, prices average about $170 to $240 for coats and up to $200 for dresses. Raccoon-trimmed Cashin coats, a best-seller, cost from $450 to $500. Liss dresses start at $112, and an Anne Fogarty coat with matching dress costs $210.

Several department stores offer a few "cheap" American dresses from time to time, usually classic shirtwaisters or summer cottons. At about $28, they do not compare favorably with English quality or style at the same price.

for example, hemline heights are left to the individual judgment of the nurses. Lenox Hill, on the other hand, taboos sleeveless styles, culottes, and, above all, miniskirts.

Still stricter is the federal government which orders its civil service nurses to wear simply constructed, one-piece and to-the-knees uniforms.

But for the large majority of uniform wearers, fashion is as high as the hemline in this age. The basic uniform with fly-front closure and convertible collar, hardly exists anymore.

Now the girl in white wants takeoffs on haute couture designs. Adaptations of Cardin, Ungaro and Laroche are spearheading the uniform fashion invasions.

The industrial zipper, the Mao collar, the hardware hook, pan-cols, pleats, long, long, chain bells, yes, and short short skirts are all making an important mark on the uniform industry.

The Tricot Institute of America is interested in the matter because many uniforms are made of this practical and washable fabric. A survey made by the Institute indicated that some employers must approve of the new trend because sales are increasing by leaps and bounds across the country.

Stores report that every nurse, beautician, waitress or hostess buying a uniform is looking for the same fashion styling, the same attention to design details to which she has become accustomed in choosing her regular wardrobes.

If she doesn't wish to be the girl in white, and her employer does not insist that she be, the uniform girl can wear a number of other colors.

Yet, even if the choice is hers, the color the uniform girl likes best is traditional white.

RED PRAISE FOR BIBLE

MOSCOW (AP) — A Communist literary critic, A. Kashdan, reviewer for the Soviet atheist journal, Science and Religion, says a Polish version of the Old Testament newly translated into Russian is a "majestic literary monument on the level of the Iliad and Odyssey."

He adds that the Bible is based on "historical truth" and has "positive value." Further, he hailed the appearance of the Russian version as a "break in the conspiracy of silence" which had previously relegated the Old Testament to oblivion in Russia. The volume quickly became a top seller.

NEED MORE FOR CHARITY

LONDON (AP) — British charities and missionary organizations with expensive programs overseas have been hit by recent devaluation of the pound. The three main charities dealing with famine relief—Christian Aid, Oxfam and the Save the Children Fund—reckon they will have to raise half a million pounds ($1.2 million) more each year to offset sterling devaluation.

"Little" Hair Pieces Latest Coiffure Style

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Hair has its ups and downs. And wigs have their ins and outs. The trick is to make one work for the other.

Do you remember only yesterday when a great mop of locks was the thing to have? You might have had to pin in a yard or two of the fraidy kind of hair to make your hairdo stand out properly like a bush on a barren mountain.

The trend today, of course, is toward the peanut head with every but the minimal strands slivered away at razor's edge.

The result is fine for swimming in the Puerto Rican seas, or under a furry snow cap on the slopes, or even under the shower at home.

Still what does a poor peanut-headed girl do, when she wants to look soft, romantic, and glamorous?

She goes back to her old tricks, but with shorter locks, and without the pin-up gimmicks.

However, the slightly new way is to wear a cascade of soft curls across your skinny scalp attached by a whalebone band. The hair-piece snaps across the head immediately, and with a little combining the hair falls into place covering the telltale hairpiece.

The tiny beret hairpiece, designed by Lisa Wigs, is also marvelous for the older woman who needs a little lift at the crown of her coiffure, as well as a lift to her spirits.

Secretary Spends Her Vacation In Vietnam

By JEANETTE JOHNSON
Suffolk, L.I., Sun Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Where does a typical secretary spend her vacation? Florida? Bermuda? Acapulco?

Betty Moul spends hers in South Vietnam.

Attractive—with carefully styled dark hair and a gracious manner—Miss Moul is a private secretary in the New York office of Sen. Jacob Javits.

That's her major occupation.

Her vacation occupation is working in children's orphanages in and around Saigon and lecturing during the evenings here in the states on "The Other War in Vietnam"—the one against poverty and disease.

"People are always pointing to some incident or period which changed their lives and I can truthfully say that my life changed after I became acquainted with Dr. Thomas Dooley," says Miss Moul. "I had read his books and I traveled to Laos and Vietnam a couple of times where I met him before he died of cancer in 1961."

Today Miss Moul is on the Board of Trustees of the Thomas Dooley Foundation in New York. In January, she will return to South Vietnam, on her own time and on her own money, to spend almost two months working in two orphanages which together house 400 children.

"There are so many homeless children and sometimes it seems like there's not much you can do. But I feel if I can just hold those little babies for five minutes, then they will have had at least that much love," Miss Moul explained.

The An Lac (peace) Orphanage in which Miss Moul works has one section in Saigon and one at Di-An about 20 miles from Saigon. Their existence—often tenuous—is due entirely to the generosity of one woman, a Mrs. Ngai, who herself is a refugee. Originally wealthy and a resident of North Vietnam, she fled taking her jewels with her after the collapse of the French.

During her journey southward, the plight of the many orphaned children she saw made a deep impression. She began selling her jewels to raise money to care for them and turned a French Army camp into an orphanage. Now she depends largely on the generosity of GIs and whatever support the Dooley Foundation can provide to maintain her 400 children.

Mrs. Ngai travels from the orphanage in Saigon to the branch at Di-An each day. She brings the day's supply of food with her. No food can be left overnight at the orphanage because Viet Cong will steal it. Breakfast generally consists of rolls or bread and sometimes jelly or margarine if a GI happens to "come up with" a supply that day.

Mrs. Ngai is in her 60s now and in failing health, says Miss Moul. "I shudder when I think about what is going to happen to the children after she is gone."

YESTERYEAR

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

NEW YEAR — New Year's Day passed off quietly, with the exception of the occasional firing of guns and fire crackers, there being no general suspension of business. The carrier of the DAILY JOURNAL presented his patrons with a handsome engraving of Washington, in lieu of the usual poetical address, the latter time-honored literary offering having, it seems, generally gone out of vogue.

In the evening, Hon. A. G. Burr, our distinguished representative to Congress, with his newly married bride, held a levee in the Dunlap House, which was largely attended by the elite of the city.

A festival was held at one of the Portuguese churches on New Year's night, the children of the Sunday school being made happy with a splendid Christmas tree, fruited with the gifts of Santa Claus.

Our thanks are tendered to Mr. Richard Dines for a can of delicious fresh oysters, presented us by that gentleman on New Year's eve. Friend Dines keeps a high-class restaurant, and takes first rank as an artistic caterer.

The Franklin Fire Company moved their fire apparatus, on Tuesday, to their new engine-house, on West Morgan street.

We notice that Walter Brown, son of Abel Brown, Esq., of this city, has taken editorial charge of the Boise DEMOCRAT, published at Boise City, Idaho. We have also received the first number of the Yolo County, Calif., DEMOCRAT. The editor and publisher is W. A. Henry, a son of Hon. Jno. Henry, of this city.

From the Carrollton Gazette:

Tax Payers should be prepared to square up their accounts without delay. The sheriff is after your money now, and a receipt from him for your taxes may save you trouble and expense. Taxes must be paid, and the sooner the better for all concerned.

MARRIED — At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Elton Eldred, Jan. 1, by Rev. B. B. Hyde, Mr. Robert Pierson to Miss Julia C. Eldred.

Accompanying this notice was a package of most delicious cake, for which we tender the fair bride our thanks, and wish them many as happy a "new year" as that on which the two became one.

MARRIED — At the Christian church in Winchester, Ill., on New Year's day, by Elder John Lemage, Hon. Albert G. Burr, M. C., to Miss Mary Harlan, daughter of Levi Harlan, Esq., of Winchester.

Mr. Burr and his most estimable bride immediately left for Washington city, and our sincerest wishes for their utmost happiness follow them; congratulating each upon their happy choice and hoping for their safe return to our city where Mrs. Burr will find a secure place in the hearts of people who love, and love to honor, her noble husband.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoian:

764 POUNDS OF TROUBLE

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — A 764-pound turtle, possibly a record for local waters, was brought in November by a fishing boat. The turtle was identified as a Pacific leatherback, so named because the exterior of the shell has a leathery rather than bony texture.

The species has been found to grow as large as 1,000 pounds in waters further south.

all right. CHANGE OF FIRM — The firm of Thompson & Co. have sold their entire stock of Dry Goods to Hemminghouse & Keither, who will continue the business at the old stand under the name of Hemminghouse & Co. Messrs. Thompson & Co. will continue in the purchasing of grain exclusively, and can be found at the same office. This, we think, is a commendable move and an effort that should be seconded by everyone who has grain to sell, as it properly separates two incongruous professions.

Mr. C. H. Gulick, an old citizen of this place, and a penman of no ordinary repute, proposes to teach a class in this art, commencing Tuesday evening. Terms moderate, in advance. The pen is mightier than the sword, except Grant and Sherman's.

HUMORS of the day

DECEMBER, 1867

A mayor of a small seaport town, ordering a reward for the recovery of the remains of a drowned man, enumerated among the recognizable marks that the lamented had a "marked impediment in his speech."

When is a lawyer one of the most wonderful of human beings? When he stands and lies at the same time.

A domestic, newly engaged, presented to his master, one morning, a pair of boots, the leg of one of which was much longer than the other.

"How comes it, Michael, that these boots are not the same length?"

"I rally don't know, sir; but what bothers me most is that the pair down-stairs are in the same fix."

Referring to the short days and dull times, a merchant avers that the days are long enough for all the business there is.

FOREIGN

DECEMBER, 1867

A company of Frenchmen are engaged in a very singular enterprise in Mexico. The parties spoken of have purchased the old convent, "San Domingo," and are at work excavating tunnels beneath the same, hunting for treasure supposed to have been put in secret vaults, said to exist there, by the Catholic priests years ago.

The Queen of England has pardoned Edward Oxford, the man who fired two shots at her twenty-seven years ago, on condition that he shall leave Great Britain. He has been all this time confined in the prison for criminal lunatics at Broadmoor.

An unprecedented fact has just occurred at the Sorbonne, in Paris. A deaf and dumb young man, M. Dusuxeu, has lately passed his examination as Bachelor of Sciences. He answered with Great talent, in writing, all the questions put to him. This success does honor to the Paris Institute of the Deaf and Dumb.

DOMESTIC

DECEMBER, 1867

The Chinese beggars of San Francisco are to be reshipped to their native country, by the See-Yup Company, which is composed of their countrymen. A good example for foreigners in our Eastern cities.

James Roper, the wealthiest man and most extensive landholder in Jefferson County, Virginia, is dead. He was a mulatta, and had a passion for buying land. Every year or two he would purchase a farm, for which he has been known to pay as much as $10 per acre, when dollars were dollars. Roper was an intemperate man, rarely ever leaving town in a state of sobriety; yet, such was his natural shrewdness, that nobody could take advantage of him in a trade, even when he was drunk.

Our African brother is advancing in social life. Half of the dress-circle of the Galveston Theatre, Texas, is reserved for freedmen.

It is said that Colonel Hoe, the lightning printing press inventor, is fitting up a press to print on both sides of a sheet at the same time. He will next invent a press that will be run by electricity.

Positive advices from Africa were received in London announcing the safety of Dr. David Livingstone, the African explorer, whose murder by Caffre savages was announced in March, 1867. Dr. Livingstone has now been in the interior of Africa on his present trip for eighteen months. If he has crossed the continent, as he designed doing, in safety, he will have collected information of that strange country which will be invaluable to science.

This has been a year of general stagnation in trade. The twelve-months' profits have been small and business failures have been more numerous than at any period other than one of actual panic.

THE "LONG HOT SUMMER" came to Detroit, Newark, N.J., and Cambridge, Md., among others. Negro riots were at their worst in these three places. Here, in Newark police and troops struggle to control the city crisis.

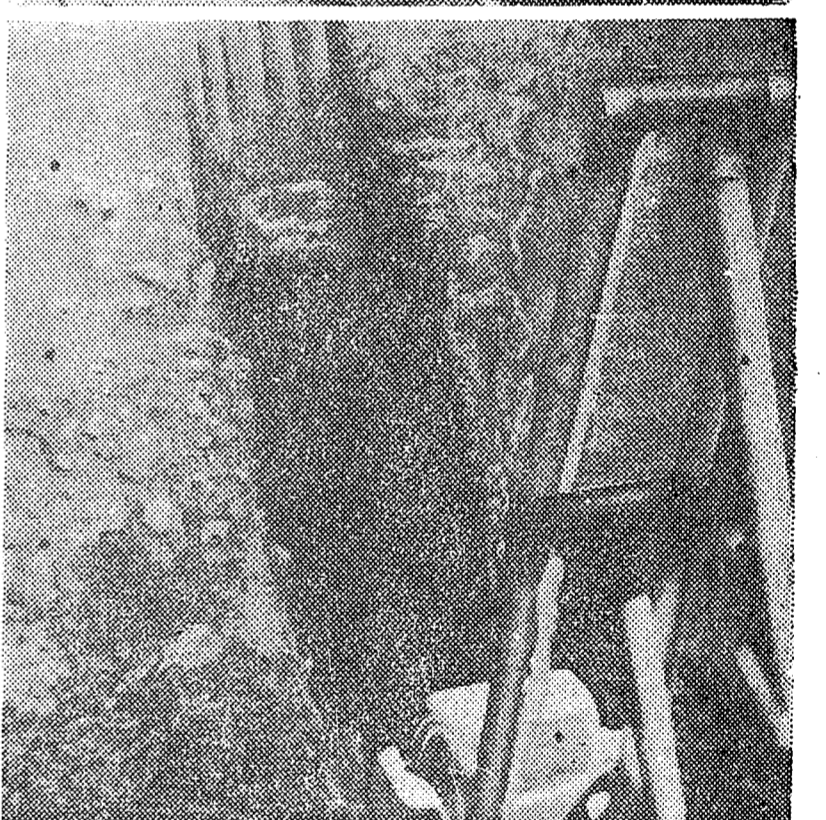

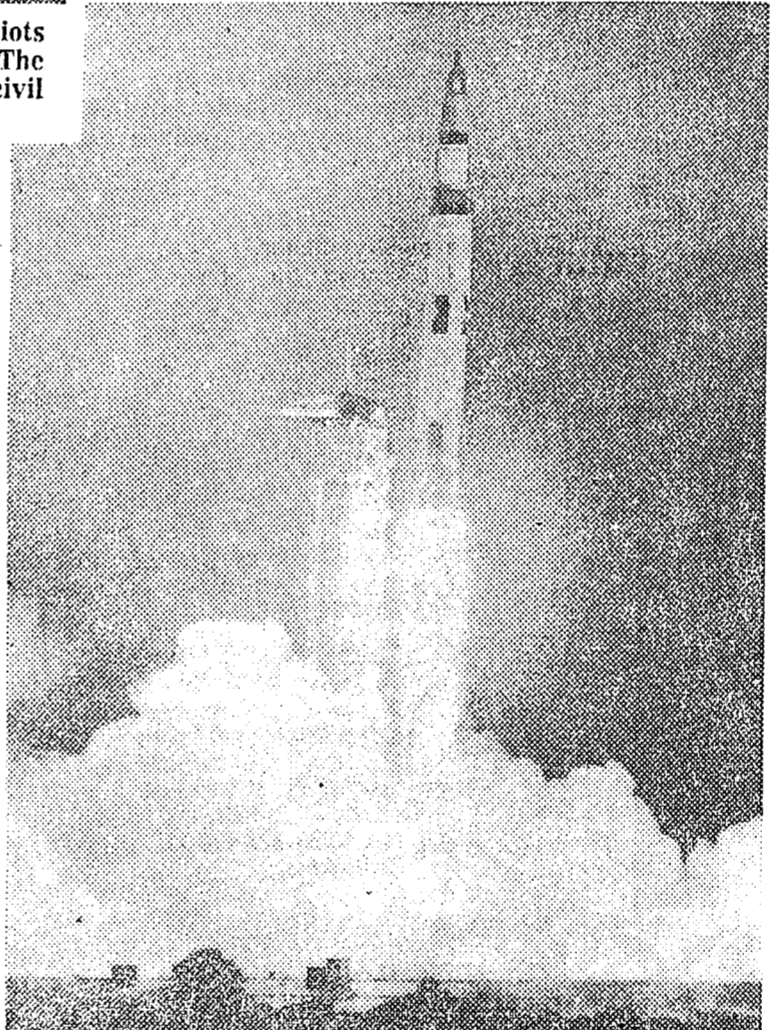

THE ARAB NATIONS gave provocation and, like a cornered animal, Israel lashed out. "A BLUDGEON" was Henry Ford's term for the strike of 160,000 UAW workers against his firm. For the 61-day strike, workers lost $5.2 million a day in wages. Big gains: Pension boosts, 95 per cent of take-home pay for laid-off workers.

But There's Silver Lining

Rising Prices, Tax Hikes Cloud Future Of Consumer

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising prices, a tax increase, high mortgage and interest rates, a threat of tight credit and more inflation are among the prospects for American consumers in 1968. These are the dark clouds in the picture.

The silver lining is that American consumers will continue to improve their already high standard of living, with their increase in disposable income almost certain to exceed an estimated 3 per cent advance in living costs.

As 1968 comes into clearer focus it seems apparent that Americans may be in a mood to spend some of their unusually large savings—they saved at a rate as high as 7 per cent of disposable income in 1967.

As a result, some sales that were a bit depressed last year could spring back. Sales of houses, cars, television sets and appliances and long distance travel are among big ticket items expected to be higher than in 1967, despite any tax increase.

There are perhaps as many uncertainties about the future economy as there were a year ago. But the chief worry of 1967, that of a recession, now is well behind us.

Inflation is the big danger this year, and though it can be just as frightening as a recession, it is a less ominous threat in the public mind. Inflation, after all, is often the product of a vigorous economy.

Here are some economic highlights of the past year and a preview of several consumer areas:

Jobs—A low rate of unemployment.

The jobless rate remained very low during 1967, under 4 per cent for most of the year, and a continuation of the same is expected in 1968. This means that most skilled workers who want jobs will be able to find them.

Joblessness will be confined mainly to the unskilled, who will continue to see their jobs eliminated by the rapid implementation of new technology. Technological unemployment is a continuing problem, but there are indications it is being tackled more effectively now.

More attention will be given to job training, especially among Negroes, where the lack of skills is pronounced and joblessness is nearly double the whites' rate. As shown by urban riots, this problem is critical.

As a result, public and private programs will concentrate as never before on upgrading worker abilities and on encouraging employers to offer jobs, eliminate bias and institute training programs.

Personal Income—Higher again.

The nation's personal income in 1968 will reach nearly $700 billion by December. About two-thirds of that will be in wages and salaries, the rest in shopkeeper and farmer income, rents, dividends and social security.

Wage increases in some major industries are expected to be close to 6 per cent, enough to keep well ahead of the rising cost of living.

Near the end of 1967, income of nonfarm production workers was near $140 a week in mining, $117 in manufacturing, $83 in wholesale and retail trade. Construction laborers were getting $4 an hour, skilled workers $5.60.

Living Costs—The family budget may be a little less tight. Many forecasters feel that living costs will continue to rise through the first half of the year. But median family income, which in 1967 was close to $8,000 a year, is expected to rise also.

Late in 1967, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that the budget of a city family of four, in order to maintain a moderate living standard, would have to exceed $9,000, well above that of millions of families.

Although the costs of services are expected to continue rising, in general, the American city workers will continue to spend about 23 per cent of his budget on food, 24 per cent on housing, 15 per cent on taxes and social security, 5 per cent on medical care, 9 per cent on transportation and 8 per cent on clothing. Miscellaneous costs will take care of the rest.

Taxes—A question mark for the third year in a row.

The answer to whether there will be a tax increase is basic to almost all consumer spending in 1968. A large percentage of economists now believe a surtax is needed to keep the economy within bounds. A minimum of 6 per cent and a maximum of 10 is mentioned.

However, opinions do not constitute law. The nation went through 1966 and 1967 without an increase, but the pressure for one is growing.

Housing—The upturn will continue in the first half of the year.

Housing construction was the chief victim of tight money in 1966. As the availability of mortgage money grew during 1967 the industry rose steadily from the doldrums. Nearly 1.3 million units were built in 1967, and that figure very likely will be exceeded in 1968.

Appliances—Depends on housing.

Assuming that 1.5 million homes are started in 1968, home furnishings and appliances will have strong years. Also expected to boost sales of air conditioners, television sets, dishwashers and such is the relatively large sums consumers have available.

Food—Prices may rise. Food price increases leveled off somewhat in 1967, but the news for 1968 is that more markups might be on the way.

Late in 1967, the Agriculture Department forecast higher retail food prices for 1968, possibly by as much as 3 per cent. Higher wages, among other things, were cited as a cause.

This is bad news for housewives, for American families spend around 20 per cent of their budgets on food. A 3 per cent increase in such an item is two or three times as costly as it would be for clothing.

Federal Reserve Ups Bank Restrictions To Combat Inflation

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board tightened the screws on bank credit this past week in a move to combat inflation and improve the U.S. balance of payments.

The action was in the form of an increase in the amount of reserves banks must maintain on checking accounts.

The result will be that the capacity of about 2,000 banks to lend money will be reduced by $550 million.

Some bankers viewed the board's order as timely, modest and appropriate. Others thought the same objectives could be accomplished differently. And some interpreted the move as pressure on the administration and Congress to raise taxes and cut spending.

The board boosted the reserve requirements of large banks to 17 per cent from 16.5 per cent and of small banks to 12.5 from 12 per cent.

"The action was taken," the board said, "in furtherance of the Federal Reserve's objectives of fostering financial conditions conducive to resistance of inflationary pressures and progress toward equilibrium in the U.S. balance of international payments."

Rudolph A. Peterson, president of the Bank of America in San Francisco, the country's largest bank, commented: "The major significance of the Federal Reserve's action is a clear and unmistakable signal to the United States and the world of a tightening of monetary policy."

"In an economic sense the Federal Reserve could have accomplished the same ends through its normal money market operations. However, this method wouldn't have had the dramatic signal effect of a change in reserve requirements."

Paul Volcker, a vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, said the board's action was "an indication of tightening monetary policy; it underscores the need for fiscal restraint and a reduction of federal spending as a prerequisite to a federal tax increase."

In a look at the economic prospects for 1968, Secretary of Commerce Alexander B. Trowbridge predicted a "new wave of prosperity." He envisioned significant gains in employment, income, profits and purchasing power.

A private economist, Gerhard Colm of the National Planning Association, predicted the gross national product would reach $844.5 billion in 1968.

"Taking into account an assumed price rise of about 3.5 per cent for 1968, compared with about 3 per cent in 1967, the real growth rate will be about 4 per cent in 1968," he said.

The Commerce Department reported that the U.S. trade surplus widened in November with a sharp increase in exports more than offsetting a rise in imports.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed out 1967 Friday with a vigorous advance in the second heaviest trading in New York Stock Exchange history.

The advance capped a traditional year-end rally that had been in progress since Tuesday.

Volume soared to 14.95 million shares, exceeded only on the day of the historic market crash, Oct. 29, 1929, when 16.41 million shares were traded.

The American Stock Exchange, with volume of 7.15 million shares, had its third busiest day in history. This total was topped by 8.29 million shares last Oct. 26 and 7.23 million Oct. 27.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials crossed the 900-level for the first time since last Oct. 19 with a gain of 7.28 to 905.11.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose 2.2 to 322.3 with industrials up 3.0, rails up 1.7 and utilities up .8.

These two averages for the third successive day reached new highs for the November-December recovery movement.

The New York Stock Exchange common stock index gained 33 cents in the average price of a share. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .58 to 96.47.

For the third straight day a record was set for the number of issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Of the total of 1,546 issues traded, 822 advanced and 532 declined. There were 81 new 1967 highs and 18 new lows.

Among the 15 most active stocks, 9 advanced, 5 declined and Jersey Standard was unchanged.

American Telephone, which has been actively traded this week moved to the top of the most active list, up 1/4 at 50 3/4 on 292,700 shares. Pan American World Airways, off 1/4 at 23 1/2 on 193,500 shares, was second most active.

Trading was halted briefly in American Broadcasting because of an influx of orders that followed approval by the federal communications commission of the company's plan for a new four-way radio network program service. The stock later advanced 1/4 to 66.

Blue chips were prominent in the advance with steels, motors, rails, airlines and tobacco stocks mostly higher.

Among the Steels, Jones & Laughlin gained 6 at 55 1/4 and U.S. Steel was up 1/4 at 40 1/4.

Despite a drop in car sales in mid-December, Chrysler advanced 1 1/2 to 56 1/4 and General Motors was ahead 1 at 82.

New York Central gained 1 1/4 to 75 1/4 and Pennsylvania Railroad was up 1 1/4 to 62 1/4.

Control Data advanced 2 1/2 to 136 1/2 and General Electric added 2 1/2 at 96.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

CREDIT MARKET DIP TO YEAR END TAXES

CHICAGO (AP)—Liquidation for end-of-the-year tax purposes was the principal factor in the decline this week of soybeans and grain futures prices on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Trade was very light for the week and mostly of a local nature. The slim volume of business was generally conceded to have influenced lower prices during three of the week's four sessions.

When trade closed Friday at noon, earlier in deference to the coming New Year's weekend, wheat was 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel lower for the week, March 1.47 1/2-48; corn was 3/4 to 1 cent lower, March 1.18 1/2-1 1/4; oats were 1/4 to 3/4 lower, March 73 1/2-74; rye was 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents lower, March 1.17 1/4; and soybeans were 1/2 to 1 cent lower, January 2.66 1/2-3/4.

The greater part of the burgeoning costs of higher education in recent years has been met by state and local taxation and student fees. Projections into the 1970s, however, indicate that federal funds will be playing an increasingly greater role.

Year-End Liquidation Causes Price Decline On Board Of Trade

By ED DE MOCH

CHICAGO (AP) — Liquidation for end-of-the-year tax purposes was the principal factor in the decline during the week of soybeans and grain futures prices on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Trade was very light for the week and mostly of a local nature. The slim volume of business was generally conceded to have influenced lower prices during three of the week's four sessions.

When trade closed Friday at noon, earlier in deference to the coming New Year's weekend, wheat was 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 cents a bushel lower for the week, March 1.47 1/2-48; corn was 3/4 to 1 cent lower, March 1.18 1/2-1 1/4; oats were 1/4 to 3/4 lower, March 73 1/2-74; rye was 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents lower, March 1.17 1/4; and soybeans were 1/2 to 1 cent lower, January 2.66 1/2-3/4.

Soybean oil closed 9-12 points lower, January 8.44; soybean meal was 25 points lower to 50 points higher, January 71.00-72.00; while choice steers closed 12 cents higher to 15 cents per hundredweight lower, February 25.60.

Wheat prices ranged over a fairly wide span of 2 to 3 1/2 cents, and rye moved in a range of 1 1/2 to 2 cents. Corn, oats and soybeans ranged over a tight 1 cent span.

The holiday atmosphere also tended to influence lower prices. However, wheat futures responded in the first couple of days to reports from the Southwest that winter wheat had shown great improvement after the fall rains had ended and cold weather had set in. The outlook was for a crop of possibly 1.2 billion bushels, trade sources opined.

Corn showed some reaction to fair and cold weather over the Christmas weekend in the corn belt, which permitted resumption of harvest work. When a government report was made public that Indiana and Ohio corn was only about two-thirds collected, some strength appeared in corn futures, but it lasted one day.

Trade in soybeans was generally dull with little to influence any sustaining movement, and prices appeared to be dependent upon the interest and trade in soybean meal and soybean oil. An indication of the caution traders showed to the soybeans complex in this season of surpluses was the tight price range for the week and the narrow span of movement. Oil futures moved within a span of 11-14 points and meal between 10 and 85 points.

Oats and rye, generally dependent upon the movements of corn and wheat, showed only a small measure of strength at midweek.

The choice steer trade also was light for the week and, like grains, involved mostly local traders. Prices moved over a narrow range of 5 to 20 cents.

Automated Automobile Inspection

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

The National Highway Safety Act of 1966 requires each state to have a highway safety program including motor vehicle safety inspection. The inspection would be much like the Jacksonville Police Department's annual Safety Check Lane, only on a much larger scale and with the check being required, not merely voluntary. Millions of vehicles will have to be inspected periodically. This requires automated inspection equipment if the job is to be done effectively and economically. No truly automated system for vehicle automobile examination exists at present. So on November 22, 1967, the National Highway Safety Bureau awarded TRW Inc., an aerospace firm, a $132,000 contract for a nine months study of automated checkout systems for automobile vehicle safety inspection. This is just one of the many fields which the aerospace firms are branching out into with their knowledge of advanced technology. Safety Chain According to Dr. John A. Aseltine, TRW's Director of Civil Systems, "Automobile safety inspection is an essential link in the chain of overall highway safety. After road safety improvements have been accomplished, driver performance improved through education, and motor vehicle safety standards met by manufacturers, the road-worth condition of the individual vehicle remains as a major factor in accidents. Thus vehicle inspection on a mass basis is mandatory, and practical automated methods to accomplish this economically and efficiently are essential." Developing this system is no simple task, however. There are as Tom Irvine, a TRW spokesman, points out, "There are millions of vehicles made by dozens of American and foreign manufacturers operating under many conditions in different parts of the country. Before an effective effort can be attempted towards a standard or automated inspection program, the parts of a motor vehicle which contribute significantly to its safe operation must first be determined and then be placed in common performance categories." To this Dr. Aseltine adds "To make the inspection process more useful to the motorist, proper engineering planning should yield considerable performance information. For example, inasmuch as checking the exhaust system for leakage probably would involve engine operation, this inspection might be expanded to determine engine condition for the benefit of the motorist."

They smoke because: I am no longer a teen but at the time I started to smoke it was considered by the crowd to be "in" and I'm only human so I wanted to be "in". 5. It is safe to allow teens to drive. 6. Why? Because the teen set is almost always considered the irresponsible adolescents and therefore are the easiest explanation of the accidents that should be avoided. Most of the potential accidents I've seen are involving an older person who is over cautious and tense and ill at ease at the wheel. 7. Most teens drink socially. 8. Why? I really believe teens care what happens to their lives and their futures and I'm sure all teens are aware of what alcoholic beverages can do for them. 9. Most teens do quit school at 16. 10. There isn't any good reason for quitting. I quit school when I was 17, I thought that my education was dull and useless compared to marriage and I would never use it anyway. Unfortunately this farmer lived near a busy highway, a natural hazard for his fowls. Yet they were well behaved birds and were inclined to stay home around a large pond, in a dense border of coniferous trees, and in an extensive backyard. Holiday Popularity When Thanksgiving and Christmas came, this farmer was very popular; for he sold his well-fed fowls to gourmets. At this particular time his geese were so much in demand that he over-sold his flock and imported four strange ones to meet the quota. One afternoon on his return home he found convincing evidence of their wandering nature. On the edge of the highway lay a dead wingless goose with a broken neck. The removed wings were lying beside the lifeless goose. In no other way was the body of the goose harmed. The farmer was sure that the goose had been struck by a car but was puzzled with the clean result. Mystery Solved A few days later the mystery was solved. A gentleman in a Lincoln car returned to the place of the goose tragedy to explain the happening. His story went something like this: "I, with my wife, was driving along about fifty miles an hour. The goose appeared on the road in front of my car; flew directly into the windshield, shattering the glass into numberless bits and cutting off

A Freak Accident

By Emma Mae Leonhard

There was a farmer who had a hobby of raising white guineas, bantams, ducks and geese.

The guineas and bantams were like any other guineas and bantams. The ducks, however, looked like Mallards and yet were too large to belong to the Wild Mallard species; they were of his own propagation. The geese were of the large domesticated kind. This farmer also had fun bringing the smallest and the largest together. Since bantam hens are such good fighting mothers, he set a few eggs under them. From the time that the goslings broke out of their shells, they were properly cared for by their cocky, fussy little mothers and grew into large healthy birds.

TEENS IN TROUBLE

By John Rankin

Don pulled away from the stop sign and headed the car into the busy four-lane drive. Glancing down at the speedometer to make sure he wasn't exceeding the speed limit, he flicked on the headlights in the approaching dusk and turned the heater on. Mindful that he'd have to be careful, the young driver slowed down a little to let a big truck pull around him and dimmed his lights for an oncoming car. Although he'd had his driver's license for a week or more now, this was the first time his father had let him take the car on his own and he wasn't taking any chances of running into trouble and maybe get a traffic ticket or something. He would mean not getting the car for a long while if he did! Don had left the busy boulevard and was cruising down a quiet street on the outskirts of town when he remembered to turn the radio on. With so many things to think about it hadn't occurred to him until now that he might as well enjoy a little rock 'n' roll music along with everything else. He'd pick up his pal Tommy Randall over in the next block pretty soon and they'd be on their way to a party for teenagers at a friend's house in the country. Even if Tommy wasn't quite old enough for a driver's license he was a lot of fun and all the kids liked him. Never at a loss for words; he was sure to think of something exciting to keep the party moving at a lively clip. Don couldn't recall a gathering of young people that was ever dull with the peppy little guy in the middle of it. Lively Party It was getting on toward ten o'clock when the party broke up and everybody started home. It had been a lively affair — a "Blast" in the language of teenagers, and Tommy was still chatting away about all the fun and everything as Don backed the car from the drive and headed down the winding hilly road. The night was chilly, and as the motor warmed enough to put off a little heat Tommy turned the heater on and then directed his attention to the radio. Although about all his favorite stations seemed to have gone off the air, he kept turning the dial hopeful of finding something to his liking. His wings; and catapulted to the backseat, where it evidently broke its neck and fell dead. It moved so directly between my wife and me that we escaped serious injury or possible death. I received a mere scratch. "Nothing really serious happened to us. My insurance paid for another windshield. We weren't hurt. Only my coat became useless, for the cleaner refused to try to remove the splinters of glass. But you lost a goose." The farmer was impressed by this man's honesty and generosity. "But it was my goose that wrecked part of your car and your coat." "Yes," said the gentleman. "but I once was a farmer and know that farms often have domestic fowls that wander." At that, two real Americans talked a short time and then parted, feeling better for their attitudes toward each other.

Prayer Poem

Times Do Change

By Mary Pence Claywell

We used to feel, a long time back, When man began to "change" the face Of God's Good Earth, and did invent A million things . . . and "puncture" "Space". . . That he could never, never do One half of what he'd planned, 'tis true: And few believed, and some do still, That man would never "dine" on pills: And yet . . . he has . . . we must admit . . . And there's no use . . . to "Throw a fit." Lord, . . . here's the CATCH . . . and IT IS TRUE. Man does but . . . WHAT YOU LET HIM DO: Some things are "bad" . . . but MANY, "good." And they'll All work out . . . as You Planned they SHOULD.

According to government statistics, the average American family spends 24.5 per cent of its income for food.

JACKSONVILLE AT NIGHT — Merchants in the downtown area, with the cooperation of the city, have started a concentrated effort to beautify Central Park. Underground wiring has been added and a planned program is underway for the beautification and illumination of the park for the entire year. On nearly all projects, the merchants have footed the bill. Their entire budget this year will be spent on the park. A fund drive among store owners has added to the total budget from the Downtown Jacksonville Associated Merchants. This view was taken from the urban renewal department's offices on the 7th floor of the Farmers Bank building.

1967 Report Shows Fire Losses Lower

Jacksonville Fire Chief Dale W. Bond Saturday was busy compiling some of the year-end statistics required in his office and came up with a number of figures showing that fire losses for 1967 were much lower than for the same period in 1966.

The total valuation of buildings threatened during the past year was $1,174,400 plus $544,375 for the contents. From this, the 1967 fire loss, as of Saturday afternoon, was $119,986.

The breakdown was: $44,775 for building loss; $29,793 for contents loss; and $5,418 for motor vehicle loss.

The Jacksonville fire department answered 339 calls throughout the year and the different categories were: dwellings, 39; vehicles, 82; mercantile, 34; schools, 5; grass, trash, etc., 25; garages, 5; apartments, 3; trailers, 3; nursing homes, 9; offices, 4; service stations, 2; hospitals, 2; hotels, 1; churches, 1; investigating calls, 12; drownings, 2; country calls, 11; misc. calls, 18; rescuator calls, 32.

The Morgan County Rescue Squad, comprised of members of the fire department, was also busy during the year. They answered the 32 rescuator calls and rushed to 16 wrecks and other emergencies that involved life-saving efforts.

During 1967, 59 runs were made on Friday, followed by 29 runs on Sunday.

October was the month with the most runs, 35; with May running a close second with 34. February also produced 34 calls.

April was a month of low fire calls since only 17 were reported. All of the fire losses in March involved motor vehicles.

Fires happen at all hours of the day but between 5 and 6 p.m. seems to be the most dangerous hours with 31 calls reported last year. Between 5 and 6 a.m. only three runs were logged during the year.

Chief Bond was hopeful Saturday afternoon that his figures would stand through the end of the year. Traditionally, a more complete report is made to the Jacksonville City Council during an early meeting in January.

Council Of Churches Has Annual Meeting And Names Officers

Over eighty persons representing the eleven churches that compose the Greater Jacksonville Council of Churches attended the annual meeting of the Council in November at the Northminster Presbyterian church.

The financial report from Council treasurer, Robert E. Bradney revealed a $485.57 balance after $1,062.04 disbursements had been transacted the last eleven months. The business and finance department gave a proposed budget for 1968 presented by chairman, Lee Sullivan, Jr. The budget was accepted.

Reports

Reports were submitted by Mrs. George Davis, radio committee; Rev. Mr. John P. Atkins, president of the Jacksonville Ministerial Fellowship; Mrs. Vivian P. Albright, secretary of the Christian education committee; Mrs. Malcolm F. Stewart, president, reported for the Church Women United; Mrs. Janet DeOrnellas, co-chairman of the committee working with the youth, reported for the United Church Youth Fellowship (UCYF); and Rev. Don Zumwalt and Rev. Dale Robb, respectively for committees on ecumenical relations and life work.

Local suggestions centered around the possibility for weekday religious education in cooperation with the School District and a part-time chaplaincy program in conjunction with the Passavant Hospital.

A nominating committee, Mrs. Vivian Albright, Julian Brix, Willard Cody, Mrs. Donna McClelland, Mrs. Dola Robinson, and Ralph Troyer, presented the slate of officers.

Nominated and elected were: Rev. Donald L. Batz, president; Mrs. J. A. Mann and Mrs. Robert Manlove, vice presidents; Mrs. Blanche Bieneman, secretary; Willard Cody, treasurer; Rev. Donald Zumwalt, chairman ecumenical relations.

All reports were printed and copies presented to those in attendance. Additional copies are available through Centenary Methodist Church, 331 East State.

Continuation of the Living Room Dialogues will be promoted for interested persons across inter-faith lines. Interdenominational services were conducted Thanksgiving, Maundy Thursday, Communion, Lenten Breakfasts, and Good Friday.

Church Women United reported 4,989 pounds of used clothing collected for Church World Service and $519.19 given for blankets and postage.

A resume of the programs of the Church Women United and the United Church Youth Fellowship was received along with a detailed analysis of the work of the Ecumenical Relations Committee.

A pulpit exchange was effectively carried out during Christian Unity Week. Two paramount needs were outlined in the Life and Work Committee report, a need for widespread church understanding and support of the city program of housing improvement and, secondly, a need for more adequate recreational system for the community, including neighborhood playgrounds, an enlarged golf course and a supervised summer playground program in addition to a swimming pool. The committee recommended establishment of a Community Park District, which could be legally voted upon late in 1968 or thereafter.

Greater interest was called for by the president in providing an effective ministry to the college youth within this community, the children in the Day Care Center, and those seeking aid and information in marriage counseling, sex education, and alcoholism.

In the area of ecumenicity Mr. Batz urged additional union services during summer months in the park; Christmas Eve, and Easter. He also suggested an institute on Judaism and special workshops for particular leaders within the local churches such as Church School teachers, Church Choir Directors, etc.

Presidents Message

Council president Rev. Donald L. Batz, outlined 20 ideas for consideration by the council. Included was the plea for other churches, not presently in the council, to verify faith in "the Oneness of Christ" by joining in the council work and program. Mr. Batz spoke optimistically of the day when the Roman Catholic persuasion would be a part of the Council of Churches.
